HUGE AIRPLANE AVERAGES 108 MILES AN HOUR

Weather Clearing, Commander Reports in Radio Message from "America"

MAKE PERFECT TAKE-OFF

Decision To Start Long-Contemplated Flight Surprise to Crew

BULLETIN

Roosevelt Field, June 29—A radio message from Commander Richard E. Byrd in his transatlantic plane reporting by inference that everything was all right was received at 1:30 p. m. this afternoon at the hangar here. The message contained a remembrance to Floyd Bennett, Byrd's pilot in the North Pole flight who was unable to fly this time due to injuries.

Approximate location of the America at 1:30 o'clock was put at the entrance to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 880 miles from New York between Cape Breton and the southwest corner of Newfoundland, according to Grover Whalen, vice president of the America Transoceanic Co.

Byrd a few minutes later added another dramatic bit of information to the radio sentry post in Roosevelt Field.

"Wire our congratulations to Maitland and his crew," the message read. "We are keeping a sharp lookout for Nungesser. Wind does not help us at surface. Good at half mile mark. Think we are getting some scientific data."

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, N. Y., June 29—Averaging more than 100 miles an hour, the great silver and gold monoplane America is today winging its way toward Paris in a non-stop flight from New York. The big three-motored plane which hopped off at 5:24 a. m. (4:24 Marion time) was passing over Nova Scotia, some 600 miles away, at 11 o'clock.

Radio messages are being flashed back to the hangar here, the last one direct from the ship, received at 8:41 a. m. and signed by Commander Richard E. Byrd, reporting he was out of sight of land and encountering trouble.

The message said:

"Half way between Cape Cod and Yarmouth out of sight of land. Weather clearing slightly. Extra cans of gasoline causing trouble with compasses. They can be thrown overboard."

First Trouble

Byrd's message was the first indication of trouble. Later Providence picked up a message signed by Lieut. G. O. Noville, the radio expert aboard the plane, in which he asked stations to "please stand by, I am going to pump gas."

This was interpreted by Grover Whalen, vice president of the American Transoceanic Co., backer of the flight, to mean that Noville was transferring the gasoline from the 37 extra cans in the main tank, so that these extra cans could be thrown overboard, thus eliminating the compass trouble.

All of these cans have steel handles. This steel affects the compass needle and puts it out of kilter.

AIRMEN SPAN PACIFIC OCEAN IN 26 HOURS

Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger Complete First Non-Stop Flight Between Coast and Hawaiian Islands; Cover 2,400 Landless Miles in Fokker Plane

GREETED AT WHEELER FIELD BY HUGE CROWD

Army and Navy Officials Waiting To Grasp Hands of Intrepid Aviators as They End Long Aerial Journey and Add New Chapter to History

HONOLULU, June 29—The Pacific has been "Lindberghed." Swooping down on Wheeler Field at 9:05 a. m. Pacific Coast time, (12:05 Marion time,) Lieut. Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger completed the first non-stop flight between the Pacific Coast and the Hawaiian Islands.

From takeoff at 7:08 a. m. Pacific coast time at Oakland, Cal., until it landed here, it had taken the big tri-motored Fokker army plane 26 hours to negotiate the 2400 landless miles stretching between the mainland and the islands.

Unescorted by an army patrol which was still out looking for their plane, the big olive green air monster made a perfect landing at Wheeler Field. The plane was in excellent condition after its long flight and the aviators said they had followed the radio beacon route most of the way.

A huge crowd which had waited all night lifted a mighty shout as they circled the field and a salute of welcome was fired by guns at Schofield Barracks.

Greeted by Officials

Army, navy and civilian officials here waited to grasp the hands of the intrepid aviators as they ended their long aerial journey and added a new chapter to man's conquest of the air.

Gov. Wallace Farrington, Mayor Charles Arnold, Admiral John McDonald, Edward Lewis, commander of the department of Hawaii and brother officers were first to pay their homage to the valor of the two youthful fliers who had established that Hawaii is only a little more than 24 hours from the mainland.

Two battalions of the 21st infantry, 70 military police and 15 Honolulu motor officers patrolled the fields and handled the crowds.

Genuine Homecoming

It was a genuine homecoming for Lieutenant L. Maitland. Seven years ago while stationed here he made many flights about the islands and acquired a host of friends who were on hand to greet him.

A reviewing stand was in readiness for an official welcome to the fliers as soon as they disembarked from their commodious plane.

"I'm hungry were the first words of Lieutenant Hegenberger as he stepped from the cabin of the plane.

Want Cigars!

"Let's have a cigaret," was the first request of Lieutenant Maitland as he stuck his head from the pilot's compartment with a boyish grin.

"They put in coffee and sandwiches, but we couldn't find them," Hegenberger explained.

"Congratulations, my boy," Colonel Lewis, commander of the department of Hawaii, as he shook the hand of Lieutenant Maitland.

Lieutenant Maitland, who was navigated by Lieutenant Hegenberger, the monoplane took off from the Oakland Municipal Airport at 7:08 o'clock yesterday morning.

Had Perfect Take-off

The big monoplane—christened "The Bird of Paradise"—got away on a perfect take-off.

A few moments later it was droning over the Pacific, its three motors hitting on all cylinders.

The monoplane moved toward its goal with clocklike regularity as the daylight hours passed and the intrepid fliers were more than half way to the goal as dusk enveloped them.

The fliers were last sighted yesterday afternoon by the steamer Sonoma. They were 724 miles west of San Francisco. The motors of the Fokker plane still were working perfectly as it passed to the side of the steamer and winged its way toward the setting sun.

At 8:30 o'clock last night, the steamer President Cleveland reported that the plane was communicating with the steamer President Pierce by radio. Lieutenant Hegenberger was sending the Pierce the [illegible]

"Thank you so much, that's the best news I've heard in a long time," she continued. "Isn't it marvelous?"

J. W. JACOBY NAMED HEAD OF EXAMINING BOARD

Marion Man Selected To Have Charge of Enforcing Realty License Law

J. W. Jacoby of this city is to be president of the state board of real estate examiners recently appointed by Governor Donahey to have charge of enforcement of the new law which will require licenses for all real estate dealers operating in Ohio on a commission basis.

Decision to make Mr. Jacoby head of the board was reached at an informal session of the members held yesterday afternoon with Cyrus Locher, state director of commerce, at his office in Columbus. By virtue of his office, Mr. Locher will be administrative officer of the board.

The organization will be officially effected at the board's first formal meeting to be held July 5, Mr. Jacoby stated here today following his return from Columbus. The appointments do not became effective until July 1.

Interim Operation

In addition to deciding upon a preliminary organization details the board discussed plans for its operation. Examination of real estate dealers now in business will be conducted by sending out questionnaires. The form of questionnaire to be used was discussed and arrangements made for having the blanks printed at once for early distribution. It is estimated that there are approximately 15,000 real estate salesmen and brokers in the state to whom the blanks will be mailed.

It is expected that future applications from persons not previously engaged in the business will require the applicants to appear before the board in person.

Members of the board, in addition to Mr. Jacoby, are J. E. Smith, of Cleveland, and John Wood of Georgetown.

Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Nicola Sacco Are Granted 30-Day Respite From Chair

Gov. Alvan T. Fuller Sets Execution Date Back in Order To Continue Investigation of Case; Celestino Madeiros To Figure in Review

Boston, June 29—Gov. Alvan T. Fuller today granted a respite to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, doomed to die for a double slaying.

The two men, whose case has attracted world-wide attention, had been sentenced to go to the electric chair during the week of July 10th.

Today the governor, who has been engaged in a detailed review of the celebrated case, placed before the executive council a respite of a month, or until Aug. 10.

Respite To Madeiros

The governor also granted a respite to Celestino Madeiros, of New Bedford convicted of a bank cashier slaying and who confessed to the crime for which Sacco and Vanzetti were found guilty.

The executive council approved all three respites.

A commission is also reviewing the case as well as the governor.

A statement by the governor read:

"I have with the approval of the executive council respited the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti to and including Aug. 10, 1927, for the reason that the task of reviewing the evidence and records, approximately 7,000 pages, and interviewing witnesses, nearly 200, cannot well be completed by July 10.

"In order that Celestino Madeiros may be available in the investigation of the case of Sacco and Vanzetti I also with the consent and approval of the council respite the execution of said Madeiros to and including Wednesday, Aug. 10, 1927."

APPOINTMENT OF WOOD SURPRISES IN CAPITAL

Speelman Says He Doesn't Know If He Will Submit Resignation

Washington, June 29—Harley V. Speelman still was occupying the office of register of the treasury today, despite the announcement by President Coolidge in South Dakota yesterday that he had appointed Walter O. Wood of Kansas to the post.

"I've discussed my resignation with Secretary Mellon, but I haven't submitted it yet, and I don't know that I will," said Speelman.

Treasury officials were taken completely by surprise by the president's action in appointing Wood to the post. They said, however, that the place would be vacant by Aug. 1 for Wood to take over.

TRANSPORTATION TIE-UP IMPENDING AT CHICAGO

Surface, Elevated Workers, Filling Station Attendants Want More Pay

Chicago, June 29—The final gesture of 20,000 surface car and elevated union employes seeking a wage increase was made here today when William D. Mahon, president of the international union, presented the summation of demands to Henry A. Blair, president of the surface lines. In the event this final conference fails a strike is foreseen.

Decision was made today by 10,000 employes of gasoline filling stations to go out on strike unless their demands of $10 additional pay per month were met by employers. Chicago thus faces one of the worst transportation tieups in its history.

Hardness of City Water to Be Reduced to Less Than One Third of Present State

Percentage Determined by Preliminary Tests Conducted at Plant; New Softening System Being Installed Under Direction of George Whysall

Marion's city water will be reduced to less than one-third of its present percentage of hardness by operation of the new softening plant now being installed, according to preliminary tests made at the plant.

This information came today from George Whysall, general manager of the Marion Water Co., under whose supervision the softening equipment is being installed.

City water now contains a total 40 grains of hardening elements and the softening system will reduce this to at least 12 grains, tests have shown. Hardness of rain water varies from five to 12 grains, so that the city's supply will compare favorably with nature's product.

Dangers to Taste

It would be possible to effect additional elimination of the hardening elements but in doing this there would be danger of affecting the taste and quality of the water, Mr. Whysall states. The company will use every precaution to avoid this and when the softening plant is in operation residence of the water for drinking purposes will not be changed in the slightest degree, the manager says.

After the softening system is functioning and it is found that an additional percentage of softness can be secured without detracting from the quality of the water, the softening treatment will be strengthened, according to present plans.

Company officials are confident that by reducing the hardening elements to 12 grains, the city water will be suitable for general laundry use and other domestic purposes.

All of the iron and other elements which now rust metal pipes through which the city water passes will be completely eliminated. At the same time the softening system will retain all of the mineral ingredients necessary for maintaining the water at a high standard for drinking purposes, company officials say.

Thorough Probe

Plans for local softening system were completed after a thorough investigation of methods in use throughout the country, in which the Marion company profited greatly from experience in operation of other plants.

Two weeks ago Mr. Whysall attended a national conference of waterworks company officials held at Chicago and heard the water softening question discussed from all angles. This was the chief question taken up at the conferences attended by Mr. Whysall and he states that he obtained much information of value in connection with installation of the local plant. Herbert Hoover secretary of commerce in President Coolidge's cabinet, was one of the notables in attendance at the Chicago meeting.

The softening plant here will be completed and ready for operation by Oct. 1, according to present plans as outlined by Mr. Whysall. The construction force is now practically ready to start work on the foundation.

What makes the anti-German utterances of Premier Poincare especially unfortunate in the esteem of those working for Franco-German rapprochement is that his anti-German sentiment is representative of the feeling of a large element of the French people and a considerable portion of the French press.

We do not pretend to know the "professional ethics" of the case, but the "sports writers, press agents and others" have certainly delivered the goods.

Poor, Lamb-Like Russia.

The period from July 10 to July 17 has been set apart in soviet Russia, a Moscow cable tells us, as "Defense" week, which is to be in furtherance of a campaign throughout Russia for the promotion of military preparedness.

Military sports are being advocated strongly as a means to awaken to the utmost the enthusiasm of the youth of the country, the cable states, and the heads of unions are exhorting their members to rally around the Osoaviachiet, Russia's greatest voluntary martial organization. The organization is headed by Alexis Likoff and War Commissioner Voroskiloff, and is said to number millions.

"At a special conference of the body, June 21" the cable states, "provision was made for the organization of section military preparedness in every province and district. Special attention is to be given to the development of sharpshooters and special courses will be organized for the instruction of the residents of villages in the handling of weapons and adjusting gas masks. Lectures will be arranged for clubs, dormitories, and barracks on the theory of national defense.

"Michael Tomsky, head of the trades' union, has issued an appeal to all unions to continue their efforts, already under way with considerable success to raise still more funds for aircraft construction."

And all this in soviet Russia—long-suffering, gentle, lamb-like Russia, whose "principles" are so dear to the pacificists, to far too many of our ministerial gentlemen, to the parlor pinks, the American Civil Liberties union and other unpatriotic, if not disloyal, organizations—all of whom held up their hands in holy horror at the thought of a "Defense" day over here, and, it is humiliating to relate, brought about its abandonment.

But a "Defense" week in Russia will appeal to them as an outburst of patriotism that is admirable; military instruction in the schools, which is anathema to them over here, in Russia will have their heartiest indorsement; military camps over here, at which they froth at the mouth, in Russia will receive the seal of their approval. Whatever is in Russia is right to them. Whatever is in the United States to them is wrong. It's a pity—more than that, it's a shame—that the entire lot can not be shipped to their dear Russia, where they belong.

Pursuit Costs Half a Million.

Since the sentencing of the three de Autremont brothers to life terms in prison for the attempted robbery of a southern Pacific train in the Siskiyou tunnel out in Oregon, in which the train was dynamited and four men were killed, a number of interesting developments in connection with the four-year pursuit of the trio have come to light.

Some days ago, in commenting on this crime, we called attention to the relentlessness of the United States government in running down and punishing those who robbed the mails, held up mail trains or took the life of any of its employes. At that time we little realized how tenacious in its pursuit of this particular lot of criminals the government has been.

It now develops that almost half a million dollars were expended to capture and convict the three de Autremonts, the expense being borne in part by the Southern Pacific and the American express company.

Between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 posters showing likenesses of the three brothers and offering rewards totaling $5,300 for the capture of each were printed and used to girdle the globe. A soldier at Angle island, California, recognized the picture of one of them—Hugh—as that of a man with whom he had served in the Philippines, and there the arrest of Hugh was made. Shortly after the arrest of the oldest brother, a man in Steubenville recognized the likenesses of the twins, Roy and Ray, and they were apprehended.

It develops that the search was carried on by postoffice inspectors and other government operatives throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Central America, Europe and the Philippines. For four years the search was carried on and practically $500,000 expended to bring to justice these offenders against Uncle Sam, to whom neither time nor expense means anything when he once starts upon the trail of a criminal.

Does crime pay when so relentless a foe of crime as this is at all times ready to run down its perpetrator? Can any boy or young man afford to enter upon a life of crime faced by a Nemesis such as this? We should say not. Most emphatically, we should say "no." The criminal may escape detection for a time, but meanwhile he is living in fear and dread; fear and dread not only of apprehension by the forces of the law, but in fear and dread also of his fellow-criminals, for one who will commit crime is as dangerous to those with whom he associates as he is to the law-abiding world. There has been a lot of rot uttered in one way or another about honor among criminals. If there were honor among criminals, they wouldn't be criminals. All criminals may not resort to violence against their kind, but sooner or later they will accomplish the betrayal of their companions in crime to save themselves.

It's decidedly trite, we will grant, but "honesty is the best policy." It always has been; it always will be.

Daudet, the Irrepressible.

We admit that we can not understand M. Daudet, self-confessed editor and patriot. Having gone to prison to save France from civil war and the useless shedding of the red blood of France, how can he afford to remain at liberty, when to regain it he took advantage of a low-down trick played by friends upon his jailer. We could have forgiven him for endangering the peace of his country and the red blood of her sons, but we can never forgive him for forgetting the high traditions of his profession and breaking faith with the authorities, even though they proved to be easy marks. It's in direct violation of all editorial ethics to jump upon the unfortunates when they are down, and make them objects of ridicule.

Word comes from across the Atlantic that the city of Breslau is taxing wearers of bobbed hair. It must be humiliating to the tax-eaters of America that they never heard the bobbed-hair opportunity knocking at their doors.

Twenty-nine railroads are said to have joined in an organized effort to induce travelers over their lines to "stop off a day in Chicago" and see the sights of that city. Looks like a deliberate campaign to play into the hands of the Windy City undertakers.

Holding that courts should be more careful in awarding it, a Chicago minister told his congregation Sunday, that "alimony is a temptation to divorce and offers a field for a designing woman to exploit her husband." Still, it should be borne in mind that it's something of a protection to husbands at that. Few women out after the coin want to shoot a good alimony producer in the back "in self-defense."

It is announced that the German crown prince advocated peace, even at the cost of some sacrifice, as early as the winter of 1914. The problem regarding who won the war isn't a matter as a mystery to that surrounding who kept it going.

Vagrant Verse.

MUSIC.

Have you ever sat and listened
To the roaring of the forest,
To the whistling of the storm-winds
And the falling of the oak-trees
When a storm is o'er the land?

Can't you hear that each is telling
Of a wondrous thing that happened,
Or the oldest Indian legends
From the valley of the Mohawk?

Have you ever heard, in music,
Haunting strains that made you think
"I can hear the forest roaring,
I can hear the storm-winds whistling
And can hear the oak-trees falling,
'Tis a storm it represents!"

And, in still some other music,
Have you thought unto yourself
"I can hear the tales of great men,
Of the wondrous things they did,
Of the work by them accomplished;
Be these models of mankind?"

Music has a mystic power
Making clear great deeds to you;
That can tell you tales and legends,
Beautify them and explain them:
That can tell of storms in forests,
And of men with strength of will.

CAN HE "CUT IN?"

Bright's Disease Symptoms.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Not long ago I had a letter from a reader who desires an article about nephritis. She is quite concerned over the possibility that she has this all too common ailment.

The common name for nephritis is "Bright's disease." It is an inflammation of the kidneys, and there are a good many possible causes.

Acute Bright's disease may follow exposure to cold. It may come on after its victim has been out in a driving rain storm. It does not pay to be careless about protecting the body from cold and dampness.

Bright's disease may be a symptom of some sort of poisoning. There are various drugs capable of irritating the kidneys and producing inflammation. Turpentine is one such drug.

The more common cause for nephritis is the poisoning following one of the infectious fevers. For instance, scarlet fever or the fever following blood poisoning may end in nephritis.

We are hearing a great deal in these days about the effects of "focal infection" upon the health. A localized accumulation of pus produces poisons which are taken up by the system and carried to every part of the body. The kidneys are not likely to escape disturbance in such a case.

Bad tonsils, pussy gums, abscessed teeth, a chronic running ear or any other trouble where pus production is one of the chronic symptoms, may result in Bright's disease.

In the acute form, chilliness or a distinct chill, pain in the back, nausea and vomiting, and headache are the first symptoms. There may be some fever, but the prominent symptom is swelling of the eyelids, cheeks, fingers and ankles. As the disease progresses the swelling may become more general. Quite marked dropsy is observed at times.

Examination of the urine shows large quantities of albumin. Where there is any suspicion of kidney trouble, there should be a urinary test.

In serious cases there are convulsions. A violent headache may be followed by unconsciousness. Serious heart complication is not unusual.

In the chronic form there are disturbances in the circulation. High blood pressure is a common symptom, but by itself it does not indicate Bright's disease.

The patient who has acute Bright's disease should be put to bed and every effort made to increase the activity of the skin. It is important to promote the welfare of the kidneys by proper treatment.

All persons with nephritis should live under the best possible hygienic conditions. Protection from the cold and damp by proper clothing is essential. The diet must be regulated and proper medical treatment be given by the physician after careful examination.—Copyright, 1927.

Editorial Comment.

WHY NOT DEFEND THE PUBLIC?

On the eve of the day set for execution of a murderer in Nebraska, months after his trial for a brutal crime, an appeal was made to the state supreme court from the refusal of the trial judge to appoint a commission to inquire into the murderer's sanity. In thus appealing at the eleventh hour, counsel for the defense was running true to form in American murder cases; so true that his action would not provoke comment, except for one important fact.

In this case, the counsel for the defense was the public defender, an officer of the court in the same sense that the prosecutor is an officer of the court.

The office of public defender is a comparatively recent creation. He is a public official to whom the court assigns defense of persons unable or unwilling to retain counsel for themselves. His function is to look diligently after all rights and interests of his client, protect him against unjust or unfair procedure, and place before the jury every possible item of circumstances and causes that may safeguard the prisoner by explaining or even justifying his course. With this provision by the court, it is or should be impossible for any innocent man to be unjustly convicted.

But the good faith of the state in providing adequate defense for accused persons will be outraged, if the public defender reports to methods of criminal lawyers in many a notorious trial. Trickery, subterfuge, questionable strategy, resort to technicalities, unjustifiable delays—all these have appeared in too many criminal cases in American courts.

Among these practices the public has come to include the insanity defense. There are cases in which it is self-evident that it is properly employed. Possibly it should have been employed in this case of the Nebraska "sniper" who shot down utter strangers.

But that it should be injected at the eleventh hour, after months had followed conviction and sentence, savors too much of the methods of the professional criminal lawyer. It has no place in the practice of a public defender. The court very properly refused to intervene.—Minneapolis Journal.

AMERICAN CONCESSIONS.

The first important agreement reported from Geneva involves another important concession by the United States. If the limitation upon the size of submersibles is 2,000 tons we have deprived ourselves of that formidable weapon except as a local defense. We can not have them large enough to accompany a fleet on a long cruise, or for other service involving a long radius of action. On the other hand, Great Britain, with its well-placed bases, including islands within easy striking distance of our shores, of the canal, and of our long routes of supply, can make the smaller type of submersible effective.

The concession is in the general direction of what is the basic policy of the British delegation at this conference—namely, to apply the principle of limitation to the reduction in size and fighting weight of war craft and thus raise immensely the military potentiality of the world's greatest merchant navy. The value of submersibles to us was at first obscured by the emotional propaganda of the late war, but it is to be hoped that it is not underestimated by our delegation at the conference and that if concessions are finally agreed upon it will not be without the most careful consideration of our own strategic needs and possibilities and most certainly not without adequate compensation.

We are indeed at a serious disadvantage in having given up so much at Washington that we have little to give at Geneva. But the duty of our delegation therefore is all the more imperative that we shall not be carried into improvident concessions which will leave us relatively weaker even than we find ourselves now, five years after Washington. During this period we backed our heavy sacrifices with a policy of inaction which has not been flattered by imitation, but quite the contrary, and there is nothing which has transpired in the preliminaries of the present conference which revives our ingenuous hopes of 1922 or induces in the American nation a passion for further adventures in speculative altruism. We trust the representatives of the United States as trustees of the naval security and responsibilities of a great nation, whose rights and interests are as worthy of protection as those of any other people, will act upon the assumption that it is their duty to protect them. —Chicago Tribune.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Chicago's youngest millionaire says when he was a boy the nickels at home came hard. There wasn't any money to spare. He learned the value of a penny and a dollar. In business he rose fast. He made millions on one real estate deal. The training for that sort of thing comes in having, early in life, to work for what you get.

How often we hear a father say: "I don't want my boy to have to work like I have worked. If he goes to college I want him to have it easier than I did. I worked my way through."

Thoughtless father! Doesn't he know he is planning to deprive his boy of the very thing that made a good father? Man's place in life is pretty much won by hardship. Hardships build character. Making it easy for the boy is doing him an injustice.

When you are buying household appliances on the installment plan, remember that pianos and phonographs can be bought the same way. Too many men think they are doing their wives the ultimate kindness when they buy a washing machine. Washing machines are well and good. Ought to be one in every home. But women weren't made essentially and exclusively for kitchens. Efficiency is a great word. Beauty is a greater. Women have a right to beauty as well as efficiency.

A little Iowa lad committed suicide not long ago because he felt he "wasn't liked." Bertrand Russell, great British educator, says sensitiveness is one of the marks of education and intelligence. The mind of a child is sensitive. If he gets the idea he isn't liked, it is fatal to his normal development. Children are made or unmade by the manners of grown-ups.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

ARTHUR L. GILLIOM.

Arthur L. Gilliom was born at Elkton, Hickory county, Missouri, August 2, 1886. He was admitted to the Indiana bar in 1913, beginning his practice at South Bend. In 1923 Gilliom successfully conducted a suit in the supreme court of Indiana testing the constitutionality of an automobile licensing law, saving millions of dollars for the auto owners of the state. He was elected attorney general of Indiana for the term 1925-1929. While he is a prohibitionist, Gilliom has been seeking modification of Indina's "bone dry" law.

Mr. Gilliom recently uttered a forceful attack on the trend toward centralization of government. He said:

"The tendency in recent years on the part of state legislatures to surrender important powers of local government to the national government through the ratification of amendments to the federal constitution, together with the persistent efforts of highly-organized minority groups to effect yet further surrender of such power, affords cause for grave concern.

"In the centralization of power in the national government to enact and enforce laws on subjects which are not inherently national in scope lies the greatest opportunity for majority oppression of the individual and of the people in large sections of the country.

"An act of congress on a subject which is inherently local in character and scope may accord with the interests and sentiments of a sectional majority of the people in the United States, but may be highly oppressive to the people of whole states in other parts of the country. Each time there is a surrender of state power to national power there is a surrender of the right of local self-government, and with such surrender goes inevitably a surrender of some individual freedom.

"Individual freedom and the opportunities it holds for true progress will be more secure if the power of government is kept close to the people. It would be well, I think, if the vital business of preserving local government were left directly to the people rather than to their representatives in state legislatures."

Just Disappearing.

The bathing suit for 1927 is smaller than the one of 1926 and should the shrinkage continue at the present ratio we are bold enough to predict that there won't be any bathing suit at all in 1930.—Ohio State Journal.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 29—Native New Yorkers—and strangely enough there are a number left hereabouts—are kicking over the traces. For years they have been nursing, perhaps a justifiable wrath over the metropolis being taken over by translucent-eared galoots from the forks of the creek.

The Irvin Cobbs from Paducah, the Sinclair Lewises from Sauk Center, the Ray Longs from Lebanon and sundry and one Zalmer Hicks have been copping all the Gotham gold too long. It is asserted and deservedly so that a few of the boys and girls reared here are finding a place in the spot.

It is the contention of such that they have been sitting around as inconspicuous as the sewing woman at a house party while apple-knockers shine as "typical New Yorkers." They further resent the popular picture of the city boy as a Rollo with curls in a velvet suit and freckle faced pea-shooters in the Toothpick belt.

It is true in a measure that the clod-hoppers give Manhattan its sartorial sheen—its savoir faire. They are the boys who court head-waiters, wear the spats, lapel gardenias, walking sticks, waspish coats and other fashionable fripperies.

The born New Yorker is sartorially sedate as a rule. He patronizes the tailor who habited his sire and grandsire. And as one of the invading outlanders I am inclined to believe he is less bumptious in his attitude toward the world. He has dignity and much social poise.

Too, he has been surprisingly decent in extending the welcoming hand to the interloper. Far more gracious indeed than the hospitality often extended to the city slicker stranger who casts his lot amid the peaceful purlieus of Main street.

Yet I believe the gotch-eared yap gets more enjoyment out of New York than the smart resident. He has a perennial wonder for its overwhelming bigness, grandeur and worldly charm. The native has been brought up on such sights. They do not thrill.

* * *

Speaking of sod busters, in a barber shop the other morning one in a wide hat suggesting the pampas clumped into a chair at a manicure girl's table. "Miss," he said a little sheep shily, "just tickle the quick, will you please." He wanted his nails done.

* * *

That is indicative of the country boy's first gesture when he comes to town. He goes to the barber shop and tells them "to shoot the works." This countryman going out inquired of the head barber, "Are you the bull barber?" With a confused look, the proprietor bowed his acknowledgement and was presented with a rat-tailed stogie.

* * *

The hill billies are my people and I like them. It can at least be said that without them New York would not be so much. Had we no red-fronted five and ten-cent stores in the villages we would have no Woolworth tower in New York. Broadway would have fewer cathedral-like movie halls without the Bijou Dreams along Main street and so on. New York after all does not belong to New Yorkers. It belongs to the world. The country boys contribute more to its progress than the metropolis contributes to the country town by a 'long shot. There is a disposition among New Yorkers to smile at our provincialism and long cabin origin, but so far as my genealogical researches go most of the ancestors of our hoity-toity Knickerbocker families wore breeches half-soled in leather and either peddled pole-cat skins or slopped hogs for market.

* * *

Finally it is my conviction that the country boys have accomplished more here than the home products.—Copyright, 1927.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Saturday.

The process servers were on the trail of John D. Rockefeller, seeking to secure service on him that he might be made to give information concerning various corporations in which he was interested.

Nicaraguan troops were enroute to Guatemala to make war on that republic.

Miss Mary Berge, sixteen, and Mr. Alexander Mogor, were married by Justice C. H. Conley through an interpreter, the bride having just arrived from her home in Austria-Hungary.

E. A. Sloan, of Ironton, arrived in Marion to take up his duties the following Monday as superintendent of the Marion cemetery in succession to F. J. Van Horn.

Addison Welch was arrested by Chief Lee Cornwell charged with damaging a street curbing on Silver street by hauling sawlogs over it.

The Green Camp branch of the C. D. and M. interurban line was nearing completion.

By using the telephone freely, enough neighbors assembled to organize a bucket brigade and save the home of Lyman Landon from destruction by fire.

Youngstown defeated Marion, one to nothing. Wilhelm pitched for Marion.

Marriage licenses were issued to Nellie M. Gast, of Prospect, and Guy M. Langstaff of Richwood, and to Mrs. Etta L. Lewis, of Marion, and Benjamin F. Ward, of Findlay.

The Little Lights of Literature enjoyed a picnic at Olentangy park.

Charles Woodhouse was shot by Hiram Ward at the corner of Oak and Owen streets, the bullet striking his left side, hitting a rib and passing out of his back. Ward was locked up as he was unable to raise a $1,000 bond. Later the bond was reduced to $500, which Ward furnished and was released. There had been some trouble between the two for some time.

Dinner Stories.

He was a very dignified old colored gentleman of the "befo' de war" type. He came into one of the small branches of the New York public library on February 3, 1924, and took out a borrower's card. He spent a long time browsing around among the books on religion and finally went with great pleasure with a copy of Margaret Sangster's "Women of the Bible" and a cook book.

Time went on and he did not come back. The books became overdue, very much overdue, and finally were given up as hopelessly lost.

Early in the morning of February 3, 1927, he appeared in front of the desk — a little older, a little more polite, as became the recipient of a courtesy, a little tired.

"Hyah's yo' books, Ma'am, an' Ah thank yo' kindly. Ah finish with 'em some time ago, an' Ah moved oveh to Jersey; but Ah been keepin' 'em careful an' mindin' the date so as to get 'em back in time. Ah didn't want to keep yo' waitin'."

"Oh, yes, yes," replied the librarian with a gasp, and then dropped her eyes to the spot on the card where the worn black finger was resting.

The card, issued for three years' use, read: "Expires February 3, 1927."

* * *

"By the way, Joe, don't worry any more about that ten dollars you owe me."

"How come? Don't you want it?"

"Not that, but there's no use both of us worrying about it."

CAR TROUBLES

Tourist Should Have Auto Inspected Before Trip

In order to insure himself of a pleasurable vacation, the motor camper must first of all be certain that the car is in as shipshape condition at the start of the tour as is humanly possible The motorist's mind should be occupied only with pleasure while en route and not with worries as to the cars mechanical condition

CLEAN UP CAMP SITE IS CODE OF HIGHWAY

One of the first rules the motor camper should learn is to leave the camp as he found it Every motorist is morally bound to clean up the camp site thoroughly so that it will be fit for use by the next tourist

All garbage, tin cans and other refuse should be buried not thrown pile be a rock or into a brook A paper should be left around to blow up the site Tent pegs should be driven from the ground so that they leave only a small hole, instead of being hammered our

MOTORISTS WARNED TO BEWARE END OF ROAD

Watch the end of each concrete stretch of road Sometimes it drops off into the roughest sort of paving that is actually dangerous at high speed Many a tourist who is running along a concrete road at forty miles an hour suddenly reaches a type of roadway which he would not ordinarily traverse at more than twenty-five Cut down on the speed until you see what sort of turn the road is taking

SELECTING CAMP SITE

When the motorist camps along the wayside, in the absence of municipal camping grounds, care should be taken in selecting a site

The site should be on high ground if possible, not too near water, to avoid mosquitoes, and it should be so located that the sun strikes it during part of the day, to insure its being warm

ALLOW RAIN TO DRAIN

When caught in a heavy rain and forced to stop, select a location where the car will not be on the level so that the water will run off the top instead of collecting in puddles and soaking in to it Stand the car with the front end higher than the rear so that the water will drain off to the rear instead of running down onto the hood and possibly into the engine.

TOURISTS ARE GETTING EARLY START, REPORT

Marion Auto Club Records Show More Than 200 Motorists Seek Information

Already is tourists are getting an early start this year, according to records at the office of the Marion Auto Club which show that the number of motorists registering here exceeds totals of all former years

During the last two weeks according to records furnished by Mrs D A Gallagher secretary of the auto club more than 200 motorists have called at the club office for touring information The number of visitors is increasing as the season advances with indications that the auto club register will reach a record total for all former years.

Since the beginning of the touring season tourists have registered from every state in the union and in addition a number of foreign countries have been represented

From Many States

Ohio Oregon New York Minnesota Pennsylvania West Virginia Illinois Kansas California Michigan Maine Texas Arizona Nevada Massachusetts and Rhode Island are the states represented by visitors during the last two weeks In all from there was one tourist from Brazil another from Canada and many from various parts of Ohio

Ohio tourists are taking increased interest in their own according to records at the auto club which show that a great many residents of other sections of the state are making one and two day trips which take them to Marion and other localities where there are places of historical interest The number of visitors from other parts of Ohio to the Harding home and tomb is steadily increasing, the club secretary states

THIS SYSTEM WILL SAVE

When breaking camp, make sure that all belongings have been packed A simple way of checking up is to number each pack of equipment, such as bedding, one food two tent three, and so on Before leaving count over the number of packs

NOTE FORKS IN ROAD ADVISE TO TOURISTS

Inverted forks in the road are likely to throw you off your course when retracking your treads over a road you think you are familiar with As you first cover the road you do not notice that any roads lead into it from the right or left, for your attention is on making your choices of forked roads leading in the direction of travel Coming back over this same road it is an easy matter to run off into one of the unrecorded inverted forks thereby getting hopelessly lost

HERE ARE THREE HINTS FOR TOURISTS TO HEED

Beware Long, Steep Hill on Downgrade To Prevent Brake Trouble

Beware the long, steep hill that follows a steep hill if you are taking them downgrade The first hill heats up the brakes, the second one serving to burn out the linings Such a dual hill causes 50 per cent of the drivers to have brake trouble in a certain locality. An excellent rule to follow when touring is to drop into second gear when descending the second section of such a steep decline if one has been so improvident as to rely upon the brakes alone on the first part of the decline

For long distance touring keep a list of gas tax rates in the tour book so that it will be possible to take advantage of the lower tax, or no tax, whenever possible Often just before crossing a state line, 20 or 30 cents can be saved on a purchase of ten gallons of gas because of the tax differential

If there is a possibility that the garage will disregard a request not to put the car on the washstand until the hood and radiator have cooled off, why not save the order for a wash until later in the evening phoning it from the hotel?

COMPACT FOODS ASSIST

Experienced campers and motor tourists constantly are searching for food in the most compact forms They realize that space is at a premium and the less room their food stores take, the more comfortable will be the trip Science has been active in developing forms of food which are amazingly compact, and a good and varied supply of such foods may be secured at any large grocery store

BERLIN HOTELS ASK HELP TO GET TOURISTS

Want Federal, City Governments To Make Country Like It Used To Be

Berlin, June 29—A public appeal to the federal and city governments asking them for the sake of the American tourists to make Berlin a little more like it used to be under Kaiser Wilhelm has been made by hotel proprietors assembled here to consider ways and means of extracting more coin from the pockets of the visitors from overseas.

Americans love royalty This was the fundamental principle accepted by the hotel proprietors as the reason why, before the war Americans used to stay an average of five days in Berlin whereas they now stay here but two and a half days

Americans particularly enjoyed seeing the Imperial Guard goose step down Unter den Linden and mount guard in front of the palace This the hotel proprietors said, was the really import ant reason why Americans used to visit Berlin

Soldiers Drill

Consequently at one of the assembled tavern keepers who has got the government to permit a special detachment of Reichswehr every morning to goose step Unter den Linden and mount guard in front of the Reichspresident's residence on Wilhelmstrasse

As expressed by Kurt Luepschuetz, director of Berlin's most extensive chain of hotels One of the most important reasons why the Americans have curtailed their visits to Berlin is to be found in the fact that our republican form of society lacks certain spectacular features The American misses the splendor of the court which they used to seek out with especial earnestness because they lacked it in their own land To see the mounting of the guard with the splendidly uniformed soldiers marching down the Unter is the ringing music of a military band Americans used to stay over in Berlin at least one day longer

Of course that has nothing to do with militarism and nothing to do with the form of government The parade on Unter den Linden could be resumed now They could march by the president's palace instead of by the kaiser's That would not hurt anybody and would be a great stimulus for the tourist trade

Propaganda for Germany

Herr Luepschuetz advocated a widespread propaganda campaign to teach Americans that Germany is the heart of Europe and Berlin the heart of Germany He would distribute tens of thousands of maps to American tourists pointing out that from Berlin it is only three and a half hours to Hamburg, three and a half hours to Dresden, one night's ride to Vienna, to Munich, to Trieste to Milan and to Paris

If the ambitions of the hotel keepers to attract more Americans is fulfilled, it will render obsolete the favorite wise crack of tourists to the effect that 'Germany would be fine if there weren't so many Germans' Figures are yet lacking for the first month of the summer season, but estimates indicate that nearly 500 Americans a day are pouring into Berlin The first class hotels are almost exclusively populated by Americans and on Unter den Linden from the Friedrichstrasse to Brandenburger for the promenading sightseers speak more English than any other language

STUDENTS WILL TOUR RUSSIA THIS SUMMER

American Scholars Plan To Study Bolshevism and European Affairs

New York, June —The Student Council of New York has organized two tours of Russia for American students during the coming summer.

The tours are being organized with a view to permitting students to draw their own conclusions about Russian affairs and conditions.

Students from twenty-one states are expected to join the tour.

Samuel Cahan of Syracuse University will be chief adviser to the parties which will tour all parts of Russia.

On their return the students will be asked to draw up a report of their findings concerning Russia, which will be published for the benefit of other American students.

SUGAR AND CHOCOLATE

If the party over is placed in a position where there are no means of obtaining food for a time, remember that sugar is an excellent energy food. Sweet chocolate also is to be recommended in this connection

REMEMBER IODINE!

Iodine and absorbent cotton are two essentials of the medicine kit of the camper Iodine is one of the most efficient safeguards against infection and will do much toward starting a stretch or wound on the road to healing.

SAVE SPACE THIS WAY

When packing equipment for a camping trip, make all possible effort to have the smaller items in a cubical form, rather than cylindrical. The latter always leaves a great amount of waste space.

PAINT UP DURING YOUR VACATION

Of course you are—but even then there may be some things you would like to improve.

Is the paint and varnish all right—outside, inside? How about the floors, the stairs? They see hard service.

We don't need to tell you a lot about how paint and varnish help to make home what it ought to be. You know what saving the surface does.

But we do want to remind you that when your property needs paint, thrift says do it now. Painting when first needed is far cheaper than the repairs neglect will force on you.

Coolidge Friends Vexed By Stories Sent from Camp

Presidential Party Realizes It's Not in Any Out-of-Way Place

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 29—"Lest o' that patronizing attitude quick," is the warning which Coolidge well-wishers who know the corn and wheat belt have rushed to the presidential lodge in the Black Hills wilderness, after reading the last few days' newspapers.

Nobody in Washington has any doubt that the Coolidges are plenty "citified" enough to realize that they're not in any really out-of-the-way part of the country.

It's quite understood that a lot of frontier stuff has been faked for their entertainment. It's recognized that it's perfectly proper for them to play up to it, but the impression the attendant correspondents are giving us is that they actually are fooled by it.

• • •

SECRETARY EDWARD T. CLARK of the official party is represented as having "unbent" to the extent of dancing with some of the simple South Dakota dairy maids. Mrs. Coolidge is pouring tea for cowboys in chaps, spurs, cartridge belts and bandana handkerchief necktees, the president as having waived all ceremony to sit on the porch and chin with a rough old sod-digger who infests that section—one Pete Nothick.

This is all very well to put in dozen east newspapers, whose reader think buffalo run wild everywhere this side of Pittsburgh.

But in the western press? Why, out there it's liable to be seen by folks who know the little dairy maids as society debs just back from Vassar and Wellesley, and the cattle ranchers as Yale and Harvard alumni, and Pete Nothick—

Well, Pete won't care. Nevertheless, to anybody who ever saw him in his best job and broker at a diplomatic function, he's a funny chap to think of as a hoary-handed well digger.

MANY'S the long year since spike-tails per capita, or ladies' sassy imported frocks, have been any fewer in the Black Hills and thereabouts than in any other neck of the woods.

Everybody who's been west of the Missouri in the last two decades knows this passing well, knows, too, that the gay who gets himself up in a cowboy regalia the Black Hills ain't a cattle country anyways—or the girl who rigs herself out in a sunbonnet and calico scrap, undoubtedly got 'em at a customers' knows likewise that Hot Springs, in the southern "hills," was a swell summer resort a quarter of a century ago.

So the idea that the Coolidge crowd is doing any "unbending" to associate with these folks not only sounds scary, it sounds idiotic, too.

The wise ones wish the correspondents would cut it out.

It may make snappy reading along the Atlantic seaboard, but it's calculated to cause stomach aches among voters on the other side of the divide.

IF you want some genuine Cinderella dope:

Did you notice that Mrs. Harry Wardman of Washington was presented "at court" the other night—at Buckingham Palace—to England's king and queen?

Well, she was.

Not so very long ago it took blue blood as well as simoleons to crash Buckingham Palace gates. A billionaire's wife couldn't have done it if ever her hubby'd been so much as soiled by "trade."

And who's Harry Wardman?

Oh, he's Washington's real estate czar—a multimillionaire all right.

But what was he in his native England, back in the 80's, before he emigrated, to seek his fortune in the new world?

He was a bricklayer. That's what.

Howard T. Mitchell Represents Producers in Unusual Court Proceedings

Howard T. Mitchell, former Marion resident who is rapidly gaining prominence as an attorney in Los Angeles, is counsel for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Film Co. and the C. S. Fidelity & Guarantee Co. in an unusual proceeding pending before the state industrial commission of California in which Eileen Sedgwick, well-known screen actress, occupies an outstanding role.

Basil Webb, movie extra who had a minor part in the screening of "Slide, Kelly, Slide," alleges that Miss Sedgwick overplayed her part in the picture and that as a result he sustained injuries which sent him to the hospital. He has filed application for compensation with the industrial commission and it is on this petition that the case is being heard.

Mitchell, a graduate of Harding High school in the class of 1917, went to California from Marion about five years ago and since then has achieved unusual success in the practice of law. He is 32 years of age and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Mitchell, who reside on a farm about five miles south of Marion.

COOLIDGE WILL END VACATION AT PLYMOUTH

President Also Likely To Conclude His Summer Rest Earlier Than Usual

Rapid City, S. D., June 29—From the Black Hills of South Dakota to the Green Mountains of Vermont is a long vacation jump, but those attached to the summer White House here are convinced that President Coolidge is going to wind up the season away from Washington at his birthplace at Plymouth.

Not earlier than Aug. 15, not later than Aug. 25, in their belief, the president will be found at the cross roads settlement high up in the notch where he grew to manhood and where he took the oath of office as chief executive.

Always Pays Visit

Since becoming president, Mr. Coolidge has never failed to visit Plymouth at least once in the course of a summer, and it is not believed that this year will be an exception. He no longer can look forward to a reunion with his father, who died a year ago last March, but he likes to get back for a few days and review the scenes of his youth.

Mrs. Coolidge also is anxious to spend a little time in the Green Mountains, it is understood. Buried alongside old Colonel Coolidge is her younger son, Calvin, Jr., and she wants to get back to make sure that proper attention is being given to the graves.

To Return Earlier

The return to Washington this year probably will be earlier than in any of the previous summers. Both in 1925 and 1926, the executive remained away until about the middle of September. The first of that month this year, however, is expected to find him under the newly-imposed roof of the White House. The possibility of a special session of congress in October is a factor here.

Quite a number of engagements in various sections of South Dakota are being accepted for Mr. Coolidge, but none of them later than "the first part of August." Participation in the "Days of 76" celebration at Deadwood Aug. 4 and a witnessing of Sioux Indian ceremonials at Pine Ridge immediately thereafter are expected to bring his excursions around the state to an end, and he will thus be enabled to leave for the east at any time thereafter.

AGED WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Almenda Wood, 69, Succumbs at Hardin County Home

Kenton, June 29—Funeral services for Almenda Wood, 69, life long resident of Hardin County, whose death occurred at the county home following a long illness, were held today from the Hingess & Porter undertaking parlors, Kenton, Rev. A. B. Henderson and Rev. H. Erwin Stafford officiated.

The deceased was born in Washington Township, Sept. 7, 1857. Three sisters and two brothers survive. Burial was made in the Dola cemetery.

TEN-YEAR-OLD EVANGELIST TO PREACH AT KENTON

Kenton, June 29—Betty Weakland, America's youngest preacher and editor, will sing and preach in the Church of Christ here tonight in connection with a special service to be conducted by Dr. J. Roy Weakland and his gospel team. Although Betty is only 10 years old, she has had a wide experience as a preacher. She has crossed the continent four times and has traveled from Mexico to Canada preaching in many of the largest churches of the country.

HARDIN COUNTY YOUTH DIES AT RAIL CROSSING

Services Held at Alger Church for Kentucky Accident Victim

Kenton, June 29—Funeral services for Willie Collins, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Collins, west of here, who was killed when struck by a passenger train at Flanagan's Station near Winchester, Ky., were held this afternoon from Mission church, Alger, in charge of Rev. Mathew Jones. Interment in Preston cemetery.

The body of the train victim was brought back to Hardin County yesterday by the parents who left for Kentucky immediately upon receipt of the tragic news.

According to information the fatality occurred while young Collins was working with a section crew on a southern railway. Stepping from in front of on oncoming freight, the youth moved onto the second track into the path of a fast passenger. The body was hurled many feet. Examination showed that he suffered a fractured skull, broken bones and body cuts and bruises.

The Collins family moved into Hardin County seven years ago from Kentucky. Growing dissatisfied with his employment in the marsh regions, according to reports, the young man returned to his native state seeking employment and had just started to work as a section hand.

Beside the parents, three brothers and two sisters survive.

WAIVES EXAMINATION AND ENTERS NOT GUILTY PLEA

Lester Nichols Bound Over to Grand Jury by Mayor Herren

Kenton, June 29—Waiving examination and entering a plea of not guilty to the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, Lester Nichols, west of here, was bound over to the Hardin County grand jury by Mayor H. E. Herren Tuesday. His bond was fixed at $500.

On Monday Nichols pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery before Mayor Herren and was bound over under $200 bond.

His arrest occurred following a collision of his car with one driven by I. S. Lamley, farmer, on the Forakerrd, three miles west of Kenton. According to officials Nichols assaulted Lamley after the crash and after his machine turned over into the ditch. Both machines were badly damaged. However, none of the occupants sustained serious injuries.

N. W. CLUB MEMBERS HOLD MEET AT REESE HOME

Mrs. Maude Reese was hostess to members of the N. W. Club yesterday afternoon at her home, south of Green Camp. During the social hour contests were enjoyed, honors going to Miss Mildred Green and Mrs. W. Hurst. Lunch was served. Plans were made for a picnic for members of the club and their families July 7 at Russell Point.

OBVIOUS, BUT IMPORTANT

Forethought should be used in stowing equipment into the car. Remember that at noon only a comparative few articles will be needed, so place them in such a way that they are accessible without disarranging the rest of the equipment.

COLORED MAN INJURED IN FALL FROM TRAIN

Right Arm Amputated Following Accident on Hocking Valley

George Brown, Pocahontas, Va., alias Arthur Clark, Poca, W. Va., 25, colored, is in the Hospital today in a very serious condition after falling from and being run over by a north bound Hocking Valley freight near the crossing on Garden City-pk. at 1 o'clock this morning.

The victim sustained several undetermined internal injuries and his right arm was so badly mangled that amputation was necessary. There were also many bruises on the colored man's body, according to attendants.

Witnesses present at the scene following the accident declare that the man was trying to catch a ride on the freight at the crossing near the Evans Stone Quarry. It is believed that after catching hold on one of the cars, he slipped and fell under the wheels which passed over his right arm.

The man was found lying on his back on the left side of the track when the M. H. Gunder Ambulance arrived. Although conscious the man was unable to reveal to police or hospital authorities how the accident occurred.

The name of George Brown was given by the injured man to the police and to the M. H. Gunder Co., while the hospital authorities listed the man as Arthur Clark.

LA RUE CONCERN PLANS FUNERAL PARLORS HERE

W. C. Boyd & Co. Buys Lust Residence on S. Main-st as Site

The Lust residence property at 285 S. Main-st has been purchased from the John F. Lust estate by W. C. Boyd & Co., of LaRue, as the location for a funeral home to be opened about July 15, W. C. Boyd, head of the LaRue firm, announced today.

Remodeling of the Lust property will be started at once and entire new equipment has been ordered. The equipment will include an ambulance, hearse and friends' car. Construction of a garage on the lot is included in the plans for improvements.

The Boyd firm now operates an undertaking and furniture business in LaRue. This business will be continued under the management of J. J. Fraber, a member of the firm, and Mr. Boyd will have charge of the Marion establishment.

Purchase of the Lust property was consummated yesterday after action of council resulted in extension of the city's commercial district to include the section of S. Main-st where the property is located, thus removing zoning restrictions. Prior to this action council the zoning ordinance permitted use of the S. Main-st property only for residence purposes.

When you first meet the deal he spends a great deal of time paying you compliments.

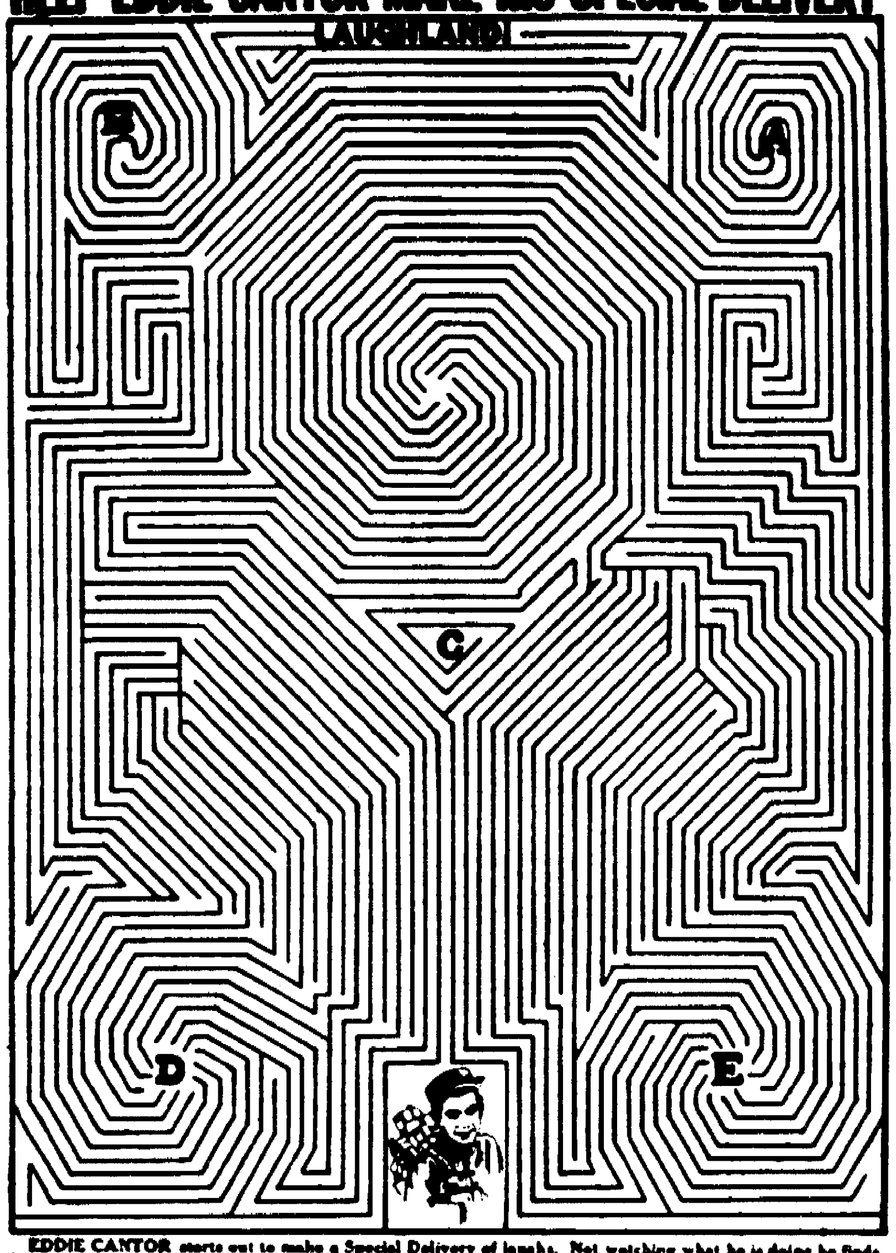
"Special Delivery"

EDDIE'S second elaborate screen production. Bigger and better than "Kid Boots."



EDDIE CANTOR starts out to make a Special Delivery of laughs. Not watching what he is doing he finds himself in a blind alley at A. He retraces his steps to the first turning and continues his journey to B. But he finds that the people have moved, and he must return to D to get their new address. Reaching C he attempts to foil a mail robbery, and is knocked on the head for his pains. When he wakes up he finds they have dropped him at E, a Square into which twelve streets run. Just through luck he chooses the right street and reaches his destination, Laughland, without further mishap. What routes did he actually walk over? Get a group of friends together, give each a Puzzle, and see who can trace the route first from Eddie Cantor's picture to Laughland. It must, of course, be the shortest route between the points mentioned, and you jump from C to E. Eddie Cantor's new Paramount picture "Special Delivery" is full of funny twists as is this Puzzle.

TESTS PLANNED AT BOY SCOUT CAMP OWENS

Ten Days of Preliminary Training Will Precede Qualification Examinations

After 10 days of preliminary training, all Boy Scouts at Camp John A Owens, five miles south of Marion, will be given tests to determine in what class the youths will be placed.

The tests will be given under the direction of Walter C. Brown, Scout executive of the Harding Area. A majority of the examinations will be in the second and first class divisions. Two Scouts at the camp, Herman Rhu, Jr., and Robert Clevinger, Troop No. 5, of this city, completed a 14-mile hike, yesterday as one of the requirements to obtain a first class badge. The boys hiked to Waldo and back from the camp.

Swimming classes are making good progress, according to Scout Executive Brown. Nearly all of the boys now know how to swim and about 12 have been taught the art since their stay at the camp.

Under the supervision of E. J. Knapp, scoutmaster of Bucyrus Troop No. 2, handicraft work at the camp is making headway. Twelve of the scouts are making bows from lemonwood and one of the scouts, James Shipley, Troop N. 2, of Marion, is constructing a bridge across the creek at the camp.

Games Scheduled

Baseball games and treasure hunts are being held as recreation for the scouts. Owing to the fact that several of the boys were unfamiliar with the Indian signs used in the hunt yesterday, another treasure hunt was held today. A watermelon was to be given to the winner as the prize.

The Hurons, headed by John Rodman, of Troop No. 7, Prospect, are now in a tie with the Mohawks, who are led by Ed Hachten of Troop No. 1, Marion, in the baseball league. Both have won three games and lost one.

Daily inspection of the lodges are held at the camp. Cherokee and Mohawk tribes are leading in inspection scoring. James Shipley, Troop No. 2, Marion, is the leader of the Cherokees.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT

ed to take time to send radio messages back to the hangar here.

Making Good Time

The America is making about the same time as Charles A. Lindbergh did in the "Spirit of St. Louis" which averaged about 108 miles an hour in its flight to Paris.

Just at the break of dawn the giant silver and gold monoplane America roared for more than a half mile down a grassy runway lifted heavily and took off for Paris. The third transatlantic flight this year. The plane, commanded by Richard E. Byrd, also carried Bert Acosta, Lieut. George O. Noville and Lieut. Bernt Balchen.

The great tri-motored plane headed due west, into a murky mist, swept to the left in a huge semi-circle and came back with its black nose pointed due east toward the Atlantic Ocean.

As the America passed back over Roosevelt Field, it was followed by an escort of eight planes. They looked like great sailing condors as they swept across the murky sky. They moved evenly and steadily, their motors whirring rhythmatically, with the America in the lead. They were impressive dark objects, up there 500 feet in the sky, as they zoomed along at a fast clip.

Makes Perfect Take-Off

It was a perfect take-off. The seventon monoplane got away as easily as a Jenny plane.

Three thousand persons, most of them women, who had stood in the rain waiting to see the takeoff, cheered as the plane shot along the runway and up into the air. The rain had stopped at takeoff time, however.

At 6 o'clock, first word from the America came back by radio to the hangar here. It was signed by Noville, the radio expert aboard, and said:

"Everything going fine."

Richard E. Byrd's last words before leaving were addressed to T. Harold Kinkade, motor expert who tuned up the three Whirlwind motors of the America just before the hop-off. Byrd said:

"Good work, Doc."

Say Good-byes

Bert Acosta, the swarthy, black-haired, black-eyed pilot shouted:

"Sorry Doc, you can't come along."

Byrd, Acosta, Noville and Balchen left the brilliantly lighted hangar shortly after 5 o'clock after saying goodby to their loved ones and to their friends.

Byrd was attired in a naval officer's cap with gilt braid, a dark gray windbreaker which covered a khaki shirt. He was smiling and genial to the last. He was absolutely self-possessed, this man who once had the temerity to fly over the North Pole. That crowning achievement made history on May 6, 1926.

"The weather isn't any too good," said Byrd as he left, "we won't have the winds with us that Lindbergh and Chamberlin had, but we will make the most of conditions, I hope."

Acosta was dressed in a gray suit of civilian clothes. He wore a helmet.

Decision Is Surprise

Noville started off minus his coat. He wore a tan shirt, the tan trousers of a naval aviator's uniform and a helmet that made him look like a football player. He is a stocky, powerfully built man, with the rugged face of a pugilist.

The blonde, blue-eyed, ruddy-faced Balchen wore a plaid shirt and dark trousers. He was hatless when he entered the plane. He was all smiles. For days he had but one worry, that something might come up to prevent his going. He is to be the relief pilot and navigator, taking turns for both Acosta and Byrd.

All four had a few hours sleep yesterday, but none of them slept last night.

The decision to hop off had come as a surprise to all the fliers, except Byrd.

The commander sent word to them shortly before 2 o'clock this morning to be prepared to hop off at dawn. The word was sent to the Garden City Hotel, where the fliers and newspapermen were stopping, and soon the hotel was in a turmoil. Reporters and photographers, upwards of 50, dashed to the hangar.

Mrs. Noville, an attractive, auburn-haired young woman, motored to the hangar with her husband.

"I'm thrilled—thrilled all over," she told the International News Service.

As she was talking a gray-haired man, stooped of shoulders came over to her husband and, putting his arm around him, kissed him. The man was the radio man's father, Otto J. Noville. As Noville left for the America, a tear or two glistened in Mrs. Noville's eyes and she said simply:

"Good-bye, dear."

That was all.

Mrs. Acosta, meanwhile, was chatting bravely with her husband.

"Good-bye Bert," she said, kissing her big husband, who left her abruptly.

A short time before he had rushed from the hangar where he got the news of the imminence of the hop-off, to the hotel, and tiptoed in to his room, and kissed his two small sons, Bertrand, Jr., four years old, and Allyn Lee, three years of age, good-bye.

Not Apprehensive

Mrs. Acosta said she was not the least apprehensive over her husband embarking upon this great adventure.

"He'll make it, I'm sure," she said. "Why should I be afraid? I've seen him taking chances ever since we were married, on the automobile race track and in the air. Really, I think the chances he has taken as a test pilot, going up in new machines, were greater than the chance he is taking in this great monoplane."

After her husband left the hangar Mrs. Acosta sat looking out of a window, sipping coffee.

Balchen is unmarried and there were no women folk to say goodbye to him. But one woman, Mrs. J. A. Bochjurst, wife of an airplane photographer, presented him with a rosary just before he left.

"I will pray for you and I want you to have this rosary with you," said Mrs. Bockhurst. "It was blessed by the pope."

Hopes To See Mother

Balchen thanked her with that modest, winning smile of his. He also wore a little medal pinned to his shirt. He said he was looking forward to seeing his old mother who lives in Oslo, Norway.

Mrs. Byrd came to the hangar just before the take-off and went to Byrd's office in the rear of the big red building.

as [illegible] the crowd. They were there together for half an hour. Byrd prayed and kissed his three children goodbye in their home in Boston.

Byrd emerged from his office to say farewell to his many friends who were waiting for him. The other three fliers had, meanwhile, gone out to where the plane was perched on the mound.

"I'm sorry to have to say goodbye to you chaps," said the genial Byrd, his blue eyes twinkling, as he shook hands with the newspapermen. "It was a pleasure to have known you, and I hope to see you all again."

He was presented with a gold wrist watch by the junior chamber of commerce.

Praises Lindbergh

He gave the reporters a statement in which he said he hoped "our countrymen will appreciate the fact that my shipmates, Noville, Acosta and Balchen, are flying over the top solely for the progress of aviation to which they are devoting their lives."

He said they realize there is no glory in a non-stop flight to Paris for them and he took occasion to say he was glad that Lindbergh reached Paris first, because Lindbergh "did for the progress of aviation and international good fellowship what we never could even have hoped to do."

After posing for flashlight pictures, he left for the hangar, the clicking of telegraph instruments beating in his ears.

Several thousand persons had gathered in the darkness in the vicinity of the plane. One of the conspicuous spectators was Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who stood beside the plane.

The glare of eight flood lights was full upon the plane. Its silver sides and wide gold wings stood out in bold relief against the pitch dark background. It looked like a beautiful prize trophy as it rested upon its dirt mound. Upon its sides could be seen in big red, white and blue letters the word "America." Beneath the cabin is the word "peace," with an olive branch running through the letters.

Ravio In Shape

The first man to enter the plane was Herbert W. Sussman, radio expert and friend of Byrd's, who tested the radio apparatus and found it to be in excellent shape. The ground crew at 5:09 o'clock removed the tarpaulin from the motors.

Byrd was asked what he thought of his chance to make Paris. "Our chances are as good as they are bad," was his cryptic reply.

At 5:12 o'clock, a workman turned a crank several times just as if he were cranking an automobile, and one of the side motors began to whir.

A cheer went up from the crowd.

At 5:15 o'clock there was a sputtering as the big motor in front, on the black nose of the plane, began to whir and the propellers revolved at a terrific speed.

Take Along Food

Noville crouched on his knees and watched the motors from beneath the plane.

At 5:18 o'clock, the third motor, on the side, was put in operation and a roar went up from the crowds as all three motors hummed in unison. The last of the gasoline, and the food supplies had, meanwhile been put on board. The food consisted of four roast chickens, four chicken sandwiches, four quarts of hot coffee, in thermos bottles, four ham and cheese sandwiches and five gallons of water.

In the plane were seven pounds of mail, comprising 250 letters from diplomats, religious leaders, heads of industry, politicians and plain citizens. It is the first commercial air mail to pass from the American to the European continent.

Carry Silk Flag

A safety box to be delivered to the president of France, M. Doumergue, when the fliers land, contains a silk American flag made by a great great grandniece of Betsy Ross, the woman who made the first American flag. In it is incorporated a small piece of the original flag. The silk American flag carried over the North Pole by Commander Byrd in his North Pole flight was also enclosed.

At 5:24 o'clock a workman got back on the monoplane and slit the cable that anchored it to the mound. The propellers had been whirring at a terrific rate and immediately the plane was bounding along the grassy runway. After shooting along 3,268 feet the 14,500-pound plane lifted, sped along for about 100 yards at a height of 10 feet and then soared beautifully. The plane started due west, came around in a huge semi-circle and, zooming back, headed due east, with eight planes following in its wake.

The eyes of the crowd followed the planes until they were lost to sight, heading toward the Atlantic Ocean.

Songs and short talks together with a social hour concluded the celebration.

VANDERBILTS REFUSE TO FORGIVE ELOPERS

Second Ceremony at Little Church Around Corner Fails To Appease Parents

New York, June 20—After trying vainly to gain parental forgiveness for their hurried and unconventional marriage Henry Gassaway Davis, 3rd, and his bride, the former Grace Vanderbilt, today were reported on their way to British Columbia on their honeymoon.

The young society couple, who were secretly married yesterday in the chapel of the municipal building with a handy policeman as witness, later tried to appease the shocked sensibilities of Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt by having a religious ceremony performed at the Little Church Around the Corner.

This move failed to stir the Vanderbilts, however, and repeated telephone calls by the bride to her parents' home brought only the statement from the butler that 'General and Mrs. Vanderbilt are not at home."

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., brother of Grace, revealed that his mother had insisted upon her daughter's marriage to a titled Englishman, but that she had refused.

Friends of the Vanderbilts recalled with amusement that the general took his bride in an almost equally hurried manner in the nineties.

BLAME WIDOW

Mrs. Kerrick Fired Fatal Shot, Two Tell Police

Los Angeles, June 20—Mrs. Sarah Kerrick was accused of having fired the shot which killed her husband, Tom Kerrick, movie cowboy during a drinking orgy in the actor's Hollywood apartment, in purported confessions made today by two of Kerrick's "wild party pals."

The accusation was made in statements to probation officers at the county jail by Irish Burns and Anita Davis, film extras, who, with Mrs. Kerrick and two others, were sentenced yesterday to from one to ten years imprisonment for manslaughter.

They Said "IMPOSSIBLE"—Yet the Haags Did It!

When the announcement was made that the famous Haag Vortex washer was to be further improved, nearly everyone said, "There is no possible way of making it more perfect than it now is."

But—with the aid of the recommendations of 10,000 women, the Haag Brothers actually have done it!

All the exclusive Haag Vortex features have been retained—including the patented agitator base which prevents damaging of fabrics.

Among the new features is the double-tub construction—a stainless nickel-lined copper tub encased in a galvanized jacket—rust-proof and dent-proof—with air space in between. This keeps the water hotter and aids washing.

The finish, too, has been improved. There is new beauty, new grace, and new efficiency.

Any Haag dealer will gladly do your next washing without obligation in your home with a Haag Vortex. Phone today for this convincing proof.

NOT only is the ability to play the piano an unfailing source of pleasure and happiness, a social asset of first importance, but it is also a most practical and pleasant means of earning a livelihood.

Many young men and women have worked their way through college by their musical ability. Others, interested solely in the cultural and aesthetic aspects of the piano, have later through this same delightful ability, kept themselves from actual want.

With but four exceptions, more people in this country earn their living in music than in any other profession.

Whatever may be your plans for the future of your child, you owe one outstanding obligation: a piano and lessons in piano playing.

OFFICIALS ARE WITHOUT TRACE OF HOLDUP BAND

Hold Theory That Bandits Are Northern Ohio Terrorists

Working on the theory that the hold-up band which staged a successful Saturday robbery at the Galion Commercial Savings Bank yesterday are the same who have stolen automobiles, robbed homes and terrorized citizens throughout northern Ohio officials of a dozen or more counties were continuing a search today that so far has proved fruitless.

The bandits five of whom worked in bank during the robbery while a sixth is believed to have waited at the wheel of the getaway car, disappeared in a cloud of dust after their bold escapade at Galion.

Many Reports Received

Gathering reports regarding speeding autos carrying varying numbers of men continued to pour into Galion police headquarters today from all sections of the state.

Bank officials following yesterday's robbery immediately borrowed funds from other Galion banks in order to open up with the business. They were holding conferences this morning with bankers of the Slater, Cincinnati detective agency, auto club officials and police officials in an attempt to trace the bandits.

Miss Catheryne E. Abel and E. Godfrey Leffler Wed

A pretty home wedding was solemnized today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Abel, 193 E. George-st, when their daughter, Miss Catheryne E. Abel became the bride of E. Godfrey Leffler. An altar arranged of palms, daisies and delphinium formed an attractive background for the bridal party which included Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holtz and little Miss Juliana Walsh. The single ring service was read by Rev. C. F. Lauer, of Pittsburgh, cousin of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony and reception, a wedding breakfast was served in the ballroom at Hotel Harding, covers being placed for 45 guests. A color effect of pink and white predominated in the decorations which included roses and other garden bloom, and the table was lighted with pink candles with holders in the same shade.

The bride wore for her wedding a frock of white taffeta with a white picture hat. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Holly, wore a gown of blue georgette with silver lace trimming and a large silk hat in a rose shade. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of pink roses. Little Miss Walsh served as flower girl and Mr. Holly attended the bridegroom as best man. Miss Bradel McCurdy played the wedding marches.

Following the breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Leffler left on a motor trip to the lakes and upon their return will make their home with the bride's parents. Mrs. Leffler wore for traveling a frock of tan with a hat of the same shade.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Leffler are graduates of Marion High School. Mrs. Leffler attended Ohio University and for the last few years has been employed as secretary in the office of Principal K. H. Marshall. Mr. Leffler is the son of John Leffler, Delaware-av, and is employed with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. James Gates, of Detroit, Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Lauer and family, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Albert Salisbury, of Columbus.

"Ace High!"

"When folks ask what beauty aid I consider most necessary, I always tell them Black and White Face Powder is 'ace high' with me!" says pretty Miss Mae Redd, 1225 57th St., Brooklyn, N. Y. "Its soft fineness and flattering tints blend with my complexion naturally, yet make it look smoother, creamier and prettier than ever before, hiding imperfections and bringing out good points. I love, too, the delicate fragrance and marvelous clinging power of this dainty powder!"

The exquisitely textured Black and White Face Powder is boiled many times through silk, making each particle so tiny and light it fairly floats on air, and so fine it soothes the most delicate skin. You can get the attractive 25c boxes of it from 80,000 dealers everywhere.

WOMEN APPROACHING MIDDLE AGE

Pass Through This Trying Period in Good Condition by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. HARVEY TUCKER
R. R. 9, SHELBYVILLE, IND.

"Grow old along with me,
The best is yet to be"

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age, say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

"I had been in bad condition for three months. I could not do my work. One day I read what your medicine had done and just had a feeling that it would help me, so I sent and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had only taken half a bottle when I got up and started to do my work. It gave me an appetite, and helped me wonderfully. I can not praise this medicine highly enough. I surely will advise all women and girls to take it, and they don't have to use rouge to look healthy. My two daughters are taking it now and one is also using the Sanative Wash. I am willing to have you use this testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. HARVEY TUCKER, R. R. No. 9, Shelbyville, Indiana.

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. JENNIE BOULEAMAN, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

Clear, Fresh Skin Wins Admirers

First impressions are lasting. A woman may be ever so sweet and lovely, but if her skin is dull and lifeless she will always be passed up for the one who knows that the secret of popularity is a youthful, clear complexion.

If your skin is discolored, freckled, tanned and coarse, clear it and revive that satin texture it once had by simply massaging it with the dainty and fragrant lotion which so many women are using. Get a three-ounce Bottle of Orchard White from your nearest dealer and squeeze the juice of two lemons into it.

You will never go another day without looking like a fairy queen after you once see how smooth and dewily fresh it keeps your skin.—Adv.

"At a test by fire I was about to depart
ceive your magic, for it will not hurt you, for it can harm no wizard. It may be wisdom to enter the burnouse, else the flames accidently kick at it."

But it was not of the burnouse that Larry was thinking. It was that matter of the Sorcerer's robe that he thought was taking through his mind that if he were to face intense heat unscathed through being fireproof, it would be dynamite to him beneath his outer garment to set explosives probably would, in fact.
There it was obvious, could not be permitted to occur. Swiftly his brain turned over the new problem confronting him and his hands passing lightly his burnouse to feel, each nothing suspicious of the exposure.

Now he was in front of the door and the first was stronger. He saw the robed figure seize a bar of iron, insert it in a hole in the portal and pull. The massive portal swung open, emitting a pale cloud of wood smoke. Larry gazed through the portal and an exclamation of amazement burst from his lips.

Before, through the door, was a pile of faggots rising to the white from apertures in two of the surrounding walls. Attendants in the lee leaned forward at regular intervals and tossed fresh faggots upon the burning pile. The other two walls were the ones which faced [illegible] and for some reason [illegible] seeming to be a solid [illegible] dazzling glow.

Glancing at the floor he saw that it was a pit [illegible] of of small, pointed stakes set in steel frames. He saw a shoulder chain leading from the weapon through one of the apertures to his left and sensed that the secret of the Eye was now revealed. A curtain of some sort on the exterior of the glass could be whisked away or replaced at will by workmen of this chair. The flaming faggot pile, a tremendous heap almost impossible of description, furnished the light that made the eerie glare that swept the country-side without.

He was a hundred feet from the flaming faggots yet so mighty was the pile, so hot the fire that he felt the heat like searing pain into his cheeks, like a breath out of hell itself. Heavy hands went against his shoulder and he shot forward into the fire room. The door closed behind him with a jarring crash.

At his appearance the attendants in the apertures set up a wailing as the whips of the keepers stung them and now fresh faggots flew toward the fire, for all the world like dead limbs torn from a jungle by a tropic hurricane,
the branches fell darkly on the flame, blazing and writhing. It was evident that an effort was being made to brokally roast him alive. The fire flared swiftly higher, the heat grew more intense.

It was a situation that he could not endure. He knew that by changing posture, shifting constantly so that first his front, then his back, faced the faggots, he might withstand the heat indefinitely, though under terrific torture, he might hold out until the keepers' lashes would cause the flames to climb so high and burn so briskly that he would simply shrivel and bake in his skin. Naturally, he had no intentions whatsoever of waiting that long.

First, partly as an experiment, he started rapidly toward one of the apertures, but before he could reach it, he saw two long Berber lances, with wicked barbs, come out of the darkness and leap toward him. So were these portals guarded. He considered swiftly. He could, with his automatic, clear a way through any of the apertures, but would that aid him in the end? He decided it would not, then his mind swept to the dynamite cubes he had held all the time in his hands.

Calmly, he struck a match and lit
the fuse of one of the cubes, hurling it with deadly aim through the aperture that held the lances. The other cube he tossed directly into the heart of the flaming brands, bending low to take the rain of fire he knew would follow.

Almost as [illegible] the explosions came.
There was a terrific upheaval among the faggots, while over at the opening in the wall there was a swift crumbling of stone and dirt. He felt burning sticks strike him, but shook them off with a quick, hurried motion.

Now another dynamite cube was in his hand. This one, lighted he thrust at the bottom of the door through which he had entered, and ran like a frightened hare to one side, awaiting the blast. It came, and the portal was shattered on its hinges, falling inward with a crash that caused vibrations to shake the very ground.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

PHILIP'S INTEREST GROWS

It was not until I reached the side walk in front of Lillian's hotel that I found the solution of Philip Verniz's persistent sounding of the personal note in the outing which he had planned, and of which I had learned that Lillian make a third. He simply was indulging himself in a small-boyish desire to "get even" for some fancied slight. It was as if he were saying to me: "Aha! you have made me ridiculous by demanding your friend's presence, now I shall make you feel as absurd as I can."

For an instant I was furious enough to balk incontinently at entering the Verniz limousine. Then common sense gripped me, and I reminded myself that after all I was Philip Verniz's employe, even if a valued and high salaried one, and that he had summoned me to a business conference. I had moved on the point of inquiring upon Lillian's presence when he had proposed going to a Westchester inn for dinner and our business interview. Such a course would annoy Mr. Verniz more than anything else, I could do. I was sure. He was like a small boy who gloats when his teasing finds a mark but sulks when his shafts apparently glance harmlessly off un-noticed. As I followed Lillian into the limousine, I decided that I would let nothing mar the perfection of the day's outing for me, and that I would turn any further attempt at teasing on Mr. Verniz's part into a compliment lending zest to the day instead of spoiling its flavor.

Not soon shall I forget that drive. Motoring is one of the things I excel in doing, and this was the supreme test of my skill in that direction. The great car slipped through traffic as silently, as an efficient mile-covering fashion as Kaa, the giant python of Kipling's First Jungle Book, "poured himself along the road." Only too-fast-his employer's encomiums on his driving by selecting streets with the least traffic, and getting through the main arteries with almost uncanny skill.

Then at last we were free of the city and the crowded "shuttle neck," the thoroughfares feeding it out into the open country of hills and valleys and picturesque streams which lies to the north of our great city.

I am sure that in some previous incarnation I was motorman's born, for, though I love the level stretches of ocean bordered Long Island where I have lived so long, yet "my spirit leaps within me" whenever I see hills and the tumbling streams which have their sources in their summits.

There were few words spoken during the first part of the drive. All three of us have been dramatic persons, and there is no spectacle so enthralling as Nature, so full of excitement both comic and tragic as that which unrolls itself on any journey through the country near New York and the villages adjacent. Yet of all the cars we passed comparatively few held people with eyes for scenery. Most of them were busily engaged in chattering to each other.

But as we reached the open country Lillian and Philip Verniz, who do not care as much for the open as I do, the virtue of the city is in the form of books, began a low-toned conversation in which I did not join, although every word of it was audible to me, and I know that both were puzzled by my silence. Mr. Verniz was questioning her concerning the apartment she had taken and finally said: "But do you mean to say there this summer?"

"Indeed I do!" Lillian retorted. "Not any other Summer to come. I am not taking the lease until Fall—then will do it over for me just before I come back, and during other Summers I can arrange to sublet it."

"Where are you going this Summer?" he asked next. "I really must give myself the pleasure of seeing more of you."

Lillian hesitated visibly. I thought, and I struck into the conversation abruptly.

"Why, of course you are coming to the farm as you have every year," I said, then faltered and stopped as I saw a surprising and to me dismaying negation in Lillian's eyes.

Why can't men learn that a woman needs frills?

"WHAT are you going to do with your first dividends?" someone asked Jean W. (Jean has been self-supporting for years. Rather a "mousey" little person who has never allowed herself the pretty things that our self-supporting girls enjoy nowadays. But recently—and quite unexpectedly—Jean inherited some money.)

"I'm going to buy a blue fox summer fur," said Jean with a deep gleam in her eyes. "——And a chiffon negligee with silver lace. And yards and yards of pearls. And a whole 'trousseau' of crepe de chine underwear—six of everything!"

Women can't live without the little luxuries

Is there a woman—young or old—who doesn't feel a sympathetic thrill? You can do without the necessities of life, perhaps—you women. But the luxuries—never!

"Frills and folderols" the men call them with an indulgent grin. They think you adore them so because you look more lovely in them.

Yes, but that's only half the reason. They make you feel lovelier! They give you that little inner sense of charm that makes you more charming. Dainty, graceful, feminine things . . . . . You need them to keep your gaiety and youthful zest and feminine attractiveness—the qualities the world turns to in successful women.

Camay—so new! Youthful! Charming!

It's just to satisfy this eternally feminine instinct for loveliness that we've made Camay. Camay—the luxurious new soap for face and hands!

How shall we describe this delightful new soap to you? Camay is exquisitely pure.

Made from the precious essences of the world's finest oils! Essences extracted by the most delicate refining methods and blended into a soap that represents truly the last word in perfection of quality. In short, Camay is so luxurious that it makes you feel luxurious to use it.

You delight in plenty of lather. Camay gives you buoyant, billowy floods of lather—sweet-smelling lather as fine and soft as cream. Pour the sparkling suds over your hands and wrists—rub them gently over your face. How gaily yet thoroughly they cleanse—how swiftly and completely they rinse away! How smooth and supple your skin feels—how glowing and youthful!

Fragrance dewily-sweet as Youth itself!

Camay is lovely in so many other ways. Fragrant with a perfume as dewily-fresh as Youth itself. Perfect as a camellia in its pure whiteness, its satin smoothness. You like to see it in your bathroom. You like to feel its slim graceful shape fitting so cleverly into the slender hollow of your hands.

Drop into your druggist's or your department store today and ask for Camay. Or look on your grocer's special toilet soap shelf for Camay's dainty wrapper. 10¢ a cake—a low price for a soap as exquisite as Camay.

Soft, rich furs, Chanel beads, a lovely soap such as Camay . . . . . Don't they give you that secret inner sense of charm that makes you more charming? Then you've a right to enjoy them! Especially you women with household cares.

What is CAMAY?

The makers of Camay have produced [illegible] soap than any other soap-maker in America. In Camay they present [illegible] their skin. Because [illegible] quality of [illegible] soap [illegible]

A last effort to establish a Junior recreational ball league in Marion is being made by Physical Director F. O Rudolph of the Y M C A. Although there is a small possibility of the league being organized this summer, Rudolph has not yet given up hopes.

First mention of a Junior league was made the night of the first meeting of the city recreational ball commission when members of that organization remarked that many boys not old enough to get into the regular leagues were crying for something to do during the summer in the baseball or recreational ball line.

It was first thought that it might be possible to establish a hard ball league among the younger boys but equipment proved to be rather scarce so the idea was abandoned.

A few days later, Rudolph called a meeting of those who were interested in the project and only one or two boys showed enough interest to attend the meeting. So the idea was once more abandoned.

But now, in a last effort to put the thing across if at all possible, Rudolph has sent out letters to Sunday School superintendents and has issued a call for a meeting of managers or captains at 10 30, next Tuesday morning, at the Y. M. C. A.

There will be no more fooling around with the matter after this meeting. The managers must come ready to say yes or no to the project and if they don't know, the answer probably will be considered "no."

If the meeting Tuesday is a failure, no more will be said about a Junior league this season, although the subject may again be brought up next year.

EVERY effort is being made by Marion athletic organizations to provide entertainment for Marion residents over the Fourth of July.

The Athletics have booked the best team they have played so far this season for a double header next week end. The Olds Motors of Toledo, it will be remembered, not only trimmed the local team by a good-sized score but had with them a man named McClain, who had a habit of socking out home runs. He only made three out of five times to the plate.

In addition to baseball on the Fourth, a coon chase has been arranged for that day. It is scheduled to start early Monday morning and continue during the day at Marion County Fairgrounds here.

WE hope the Marion Country Club golfers have as much fortune in turning in a victory over Bucyrus today on the latter's course as the local caddies did yesterday.

The Marion Country golf caddies are very well pleased with themselves and have a right to be. After smothering the Bucyrus caddies under a 21 to 2 score yesterday, the local boys have issued a challenge to all caddies employed by clubs in various cities of North Central Ohio.

One caddie remarked the other day "when we get a little more practice, we'll take on the club members and give 'em a few lessons in how to handle a stick."

Another caddie is mourning the fact that he can't find a non-stoppable ball like that invented by Castor.

Calvary Leads First Loop As Epworth Seniors Beat Wesley; Epworth No. 1 Cops

Forest Lawn Finally Wins Game, Defeating Presbyterian No. 1, 5-4; Rice Wins Pitchers' Duel with Corwin in Senior Contest

CALVARY No. 1 once more stepped into the lead in the first sunday school recreational ball league last night, when it defeated St. Mary's, 8 to 3, while Epworth Seniors pulled another surprise and downed the highly touted Wesley M. E crew, 1 to 0.

Epworth No. 1 kept on its game behind the leaders when it defeated Central Christian, 6 to 2 while Forest Lawn won its first game of the season by trimming the Presbyterians, 5 to 4, in the first game of the second round.

With Roy Rice pitching for the Epworth Seniors, Wesley M. E. gathered only two hits and never threatened to score at any period of the contest. Both teams went scoreless until the last of the third frame when Cressinger of Epworth reached first on a walk, and with two out Miller smacked out a three bagger, scoring "Cris."

The game was a pitchers' duel between Rice and Corwin with Rice holding the upper hand following the triple made by Miller off Corwin.

Calvary Wins

Calvary began the fireworks early in the game with St. Mary's scoring three runs in the first frame and another in the second. St. Mary's runs came in the second inning Gruber, on the mound for Calvary, allowed only three hits while his teammates collected eight off Frericks. It was the sixth win of the season for the Calvary team.

Epworth No. 1 is securely lodged in second place as a result of its victory over Central Christians last night. It has played only seven games and has won five and lost two. Wesley M. E. in third place, has won five and lost three, having participated in eight contests.

Griffin pitched for Epworth No. 1 and Baingardner was the Central Christian moundsman.

Forest Lawn Victor

Forest Lawn finally won a game, it defeated Presbyterian No. 1 last night by a score of 5 to 4, making all five tallies in the fourth inning. Boxwell and Metz pitched for the Presbyterians; Winters was the winning slab artist. By losing to Forest Lawn, Presbyterians lost a great opportunity of forging into a fourth place tie with Christians and St. Mary's.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Chicago—Jack Malone, St. Paul middleweight, outpointed Lew Chester, New York (10). Buck Taylor, Chicago middleweight, was knocked out by Howard Benz of Milwaukee, in third round.

At Seattle — Dec Snell of Tacoma, defeated Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, in six rounds. Morgan's title was not at stake.

At Allentown, Pa.—Allentown Johnny Leonard knocked out Joe Sousa, N. Y., second round.

At Newark, N. J.—Sollye Castellane, Newark lightweight, won newspaper decision over Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Philadelphia (10).

YANKEES AGAIN WIN; GEHRIG GETS HOMER

Mackmen Barely Fail To Tie Score in Ninth Inning

New York, June 29—The American League race appears to be "in the bag" for the New York Yankees, who are in front by 10 games today. They squelched the Athletics again yesterday, 9 to 8, the Mackmen barely failing to tie the score in a sensational ninth inning rally in which they pounded Shocker, Moore and Pennock for eight runs. The victory evened the series.

Lou Gehrig's 100th hit of the year was his 23rd homer and he needs only one more to tie the injured Ruth.

Pitching honors of the day went to Geo. Alvin Crowder of the Senators, who held the Red Sox to two hits and drove in the winning runs with a double. The score was 4 to 0 and marked Boston's tenth straight defeat.

Blackburne Hits

Lena Blackburne, a star with the White Sox a dozen years ago and now a coach, appeared as a pinch hitter against Cleveland driving in the tying run in the ninth and scoring the winning tally. Score, 8 to 7.

After staking the Cardinals to a five-run lead, the Pirates beat them out, 9 to 8, by sheer hitting power, and increased their lead to 1 1-2 games. Eight pitchers were used.

With Rixey on the mound, the Reds polished off the Cubs, 8 to 1. Outfielder Zitzmann played at shortstop for Cincy in place of Paul Wanninger, who has been returned to St. Paul.

The Phillies harpooned the slipping Giants, 7 to 3. Hornsby hit his fourteenth homer.

The speeding Tigers took both ends of a twin bill from the Browns, 9 to 3 and 6 to 3. Heilman pounded out five hits for 12 bases.

The Robins and Braves were idle.

LOUISE FORDYCE WILL DEFEND GOLF CROWN

Youngstown Star Has Narrow Escape in First Round of Meet

Cleveland, June 29—Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, was to continue defense today of her state crown in the women's state golf tournament second round of match play, against Mrs. E. W. Phelps, of Cleveland.

The Youngstown star had a narrow escape in the first round Tuesday when Mrs. E. T. Nicholas, Cleveland, gave her a hard battle and was prevented from eliminating the champ only by missing a four foot putt at the seventeenth hole. The match required an extra hole where Miss Fordyce registered a birdie four to win. Mrs. Nicholas made birdies on the thirteenth and sixteenth holes after taking 10 strokes on the eleventh.

Mrs. W. E. Ibold, Cincinnati, in defeating Mrs. George Hedges, Columbus, 7 and 6, in the first round, failed to give her opponent one hole.

LONDON "FIGHT MAD" ON EVE OF BATTLE

London, June 29—London was "fight mad" today on the eve of the bout here tomorrow night between Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, and Tommy Milligan of Scotland. A huge throng of Milligan's supporters, playing bagpipes and singing Scotch airs, mobbed the challenger upon his arrival here from Glasgow and Milligan had to be rescued by police to escape injury.

MACKENZIE FAVORED

Garden City, N. Y., June 29—Roland Mackenzie of Washington, representing Brown University, was favored to win the qualifying medal in the intercollegiate golf championship as play began here today on the second 36 holes of the 72-hole medal competition. For the first double round Mackenzie had a score of 152, one stroke ahead of Lester Bolstad of the University of Minnesota and Cornelius A. McGuire of Lafayette.

Eight Racket Wielders To Take Part in Tennis Match

The Vernon Heights Tennis Club will send a team to Bluffton, O., next Sunday afternoon to meet a tennis crew from that city.

Those who will probably participate from this city are Ted Cunningham, Art Yazel, Bob Gibson, Bob Wolfinger, Newt Cunningham, E. L. Usher, T. M. Cunningham and J. R. Bray.

There will be four singles matches and three doubles. Bluffton is considered one of the best teams in the northern part of the state.

GIANTS SIGN "BULLET" JOE BUSH; SELL JEANES

New York, June 29—The New York Giants have signed "Bullet" Joe Bush, who formerly pitched for the Athletics, Red Sox, Yankees, Senators, Browns and Pirates.

The Giants also sold Tex Jeanes, outfielder-pitcher who has been batting .300 this season, to the Memphis Club of the Southern Association.

Second League Leaders Annex Seventh Consecutive Victory; Baptists Triumph

Lee-St Presbyterians Go Down Before Attack of Trinity Outfit; Lutherans Smother United Brethren, 19 to 3; Epworth No. 2 Wins

THE Emanuel Lutherans annexed another to their long string of victories in the second Sunday School league games last night when they staged a massacre at the expense of the United Brethren and won, 19 to 3. The Trinity Baptists kept on their heels by trimming the highly touted Lee-at Presbyterians, 7 to 2.

The Lutherans are in first place with seven wins and no defeats. They are the only reorganized ball team in Marion to go undefeated so far this season. The Baptists have won seven and lost one. The Lutherans will play their postponed game tonight against the up-and-coming Epworth No. 2 crew at Lincoln Park.

Niemeyer pitched the league leaders to the victory last night and Koehnsberger probably will take the mound tonight.

Baptists Win

The Baptists turned in a hard earned victory over the Lee-at crew, with Jones allowing only five hits, while his teammates collected 10. Burke struck out two and Jones received credit for four strikeouts.

Epworth No. 2 has suddenly landed in fourth place after trailing the second Sunday School teams during the greater share of the first round. The Epworth team shut out Presbyterian No. 2, 3 to 0, last night. Gamble pitched for the winners with Sage on the mound for the Presbyterians.

First Reformed walloped Calvary No. 2, 20 to 5, in a battle for last place last night. First Reformed has won two and lost five while Calvary has won only one and lost seven.

Budweiser
Real Hop Malt Syrup

Anheuser-Busch not only pays an extra price for the right to take first choice of the finest hops and barleys grown in America and abroad . . . .

But sorts, cleans and grades the barleys—malts them—blends them with the selected hops—even fills the cans and labels them—all in the Anheuser-Busch plants at St. Louis.

It is this constant, absolute control of quality from raw material to finished product that makes Budweiser Real Hop Malt Syrup worthy of the name you see on the label.

Mr Mitchell is skinny and a good runner and when they went out of the alley they were pretty close together, and when we were wondering how it was coming out the front door of the barn was flang open and Nibs came in and went out of the hole head first and Mr Mitchell done the same, and they were gone again. We played ball almost all day but Nibs didn't show up, so we went looking for him and found him hiding under the stink factory. He don't blame Mr. Mitchell, but he has sure got it in for the Lost Bag of Tripe.

!" cautioned Peter, but his came too late. Fox had heard just as fast as you can," whispered Peter. "I will stand in front of you and—yes—I guess I will whistle. Then if you make any noise as you go Cutie Fox will not hear it."

"But daddy," began Baby Porcupine. Peter cut him short.

"Never mind. No questions! There is no time to answer them. When you reach home you will find daddy waiting for you. That is all I can tell you. Quick! Fox has turned! He is coming this way. Twice tonight he has been cheated of a meal. I shall not answer for your safety if he catches sight of you. Don't you hear me? Hurry!"

Baby Porcupine seemed frozen to the spot with fear, but at Peter's final command he started off and Peter almost laughed to see how fast he made his little legs go. Then he thought of his promise. Suppose Baby Porcupine in his terror should step on a dead twig or run into a heap of dry leaves. All would be up with the little chap then. Peter started to whistle, and none too soon—in a moment Fox trotted up.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that The Fite Memorial Baptist Church of Marion, Marion County, Ohio, a religious corporation, on the 7th day of June, A. D. 1927, filed its petition in the Common Pleas Court of Marion County, Ohio being case No. 25,776, praying said court for authority to encumber the following described real estate: "Situated in the County of Marion, in the State of Ohio, and in the City of Marion and known as being the north fifty (50) feet of Lots Numbers 3095, 3096, and 3097 in Eden Park Addition to the City of Marion, Ohio," with a mortgage to secure a loan of $2,100.00, upon such terms as to the court may seem reasonable, to enable the petitioner to continue to hold said real estate for the benefit of its members.

Said petition will be for hearing on and after the 11th day of July, A. D. 1927.

Take Notice

I have 7 fresh setter pups for sale that are bred for Pheasant dog. Take one Lord Baltimore, will not point quail or other game birds. Trained on Pheasant only.

The dam, Lady Baltimore will point quail only once in a while.

These are seven very nice pups that I would like to sell to Ohio sportsmen. They will make good on Pheasant or I will refund them or give one that suits. I will furnish all papers to register in the field trial stud book and the American Kennel Club. Both sire and dam took first in their class at the Columbus dog show last fall. I want to place these pups close to Marion so I can watch them develop. Come and see these pups.

SPECULATIVE LEADERS STAGE PERIODIC RALLY

Baldwin Pool Stands Squarely Behind Stock After 7-Point Loss

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks irregular, industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds irregular; call money 5 per cent; grain steady, copper irregular; oil weak; cotton steady; rubber irregular; Sugar firm, foreign exchange irregular.

New York, June 29—Bears on the stock market met with an unexpected reprise in their campaign for lower prices today and after a reactionary movement in the first period the market staged another of its periodic recoveries.

Heavy selling of Baldwin Locomotive in the forenoon started a bear drive. An early break of 7 points in the stock, which was unexplained rumors of the ending of negotiations for the sale of the company's Philadelphia property served up stop loss orders and created bearish activities in other speculative leaders. As on former occasions however, the Baldwin pool stood squarely behind the stock, and the sudden decline of operations of the Baldwin plant to 10 per cent of capacity appeared to be a factor of much significance in the stock market.

Marking down of call money rate from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent signalled the beginning of the usual midsummer money market ease. Near the end of the week an enormous amount of money will be released in the form of dividends and interest payments, a large portion of which will be available for the investment and speculative markets.

The steel trade reviews showed a quiet summer in the steel business. This will be more pronounced when compared with last years expanding demands about this time. Talk of the long range of the boom however, is pronounced dissipation and buying are looked for, particularly if the railroad consolidation projects are put through in time to insure heavy buying of railway equipment in the fall. Normal buying of automobile steel is looked for.

50,000 IN CLEVELAND FOR GROTTO SESSIONS

Drill Teams, Bands and Glee Clubs Capture City; Business Meets Today

Cleveland, June 29—The city is playing host to approximately 50,000 visitors to the convention of the Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm.

From every part north and south and west they came and still were coming today. The streets are carpeted and waving fluttering fezzes and variegated trousers of the gaggy oriental style. Drill teams, bands and glee clubs were captured on every corner.

Coming by special train from Tennessee and Illinois, from New York and Arizona from all over the nation, the grotto members marched through the streets, keep by group to their bollets. Each group had its band which played its own particular selections. The Kentucky delegation invaded the heart of the city's markets to the strains of "Dixie" while others favored "Ach Du Lieber Augustine" and "Hail Hail, the Gang's All Here."

Business sessions were scheduled for 9:30 a. m. today followed by the grand parade at 1:45 p. m. At 8:30 o'clock tonight the grand motored full form parade of will be held at Masonic Auditorium.

GO TO MEETING

Three Marion Girls Attending Convention in Xenia

Miss Hope Marcia presents, Miss Dorothy Newby, secretary and Miss Nola Miller of the Y. P. B. of the W. C. T. U. left yesterday for Xenia where they will attend the annual state Y. P. B. Convention. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Newby, Uhrichsville, who returned last night.

Among the speakers will be John Osmun of Cleveland, formerly of this city and Mrs. Florence Richards, of Columbus state W. C. T. U. President. Entertainment features include a visit to the home of Senator Samson D. Fess at Yellow Springs, a trip to Antioch College, the Ohio Soldiers & Sailors Orphans' Home, Xenia, National Military Home and the factory of the National Cash Register, Dayton, and Wilberforce College. The girls will return home Saturday.

INSTALLATION PLANNED BY SOSNOWSKI LODGE

Plans for the installation of officers were made at the regular meeting of the Sosnowski Rondal Lodge at the Odd Fellows' hall last night.

The installation according to plans laid last night will be held at the regular meeting, Jul. 12. Only two officers will take office at that time, Mrs. Charles Reichert as noble grand and Mrs. Alice Fox as vice grand.

BUILDING PERMIT

A building permit was issued from the office of the city clerk yesterday afternoon to the Skinner Lumber Co., N. Greenwood st. who will build a coal shed to cost approximately $500. A permit was also issued to J. C. Porter, North Lewisburg for a garage to be built at 319 Carraway, at a cost of $50.

REPORTED BETTER

The condition of E. E. Ledley, of Richwood, who underwent an operation June 17 at City Hospital, is reported to be improving.

HEARING ON INJUNCTION SCHEDULED FOR JULY 7

Temporary Order Granted Cleveland Collieries Against Mine Workers

Cambridge, June 29—The temporary injunction granted to the Cleveland Collieries Co. of the Kimbolton mines late Tuesday against Sub District No. 6 of the United Mine Workers, will be heard July 7, on the company's plea for a permanent injunction, it was announced here today by Probate Judge Sam Schlig, who issued the temporary order.

The order enjoins John Walker president, and Frank Benner secretary and treasurer and members of the subdistrict from interfering with workers damaging property or unlawfully picketing the Kimbolton mines.

During the hearing Tuesday, it was charged that union miners had broken into company houses where non-union miners resided and ejected them, broken windows, and stoned non-union workers.

COMMISSIONERS HEARING OBJECTIONS AND CLAIMS

Hearing is being held by the board of county commissioners this afternoon to give property owners an opportunity to file objections and claims for damages in connection with proposed improvement of the Likens-Poke Lateral in Marion, Claridon and Grand Prairie townships.

The proposed improvement is to be about four miles in length.

FOUR DIVORCE SUITS FILED IN COURT TODAY

Largest Number of Actions Started in One Day Since Jan. 1, 1927

With an increase in large number of marriage licenses being issued in probate court forecasting an exceptionally profitable showing for June the "month for brides" a coincident note in the court house above at the courthouse this morning when four suits for divorce were filed.

This is the largest number of divorce cases started on any one day since the beginning of 1927.

James F. Kerr is plaintiff in a suit against Maria F. Kerr in which he asks for a divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty. He says that because of his wife being subject to frequent violent outbursts of temper in which she called him vile names he was forced to vacate on October 20, 1926.

Out Agreement

On Sept. 7, 1926 the petition relates they entered into a separation agreement and settled all property rights. Through his attorneys, Crow & Watchinson Kerr asks for a divorce and requests that his wife be barred from alimony rights.

In her suit for divorce Donna Marie Barrett charges that from the time of her marriage to Lawrence T. Barrett on Aug. 23, 1924, he required her to work stating that she should continue earning money until they had accumulated $10,000.

The husband was of a jealous disposition and made false accusations against her, Mrs. Barrett states, causing her to worry so that she was unable to work for nine months.

Barrett deserted her about a year ago she states. The petition relates that he owns two automobiles which he threatens to sell to escape payment of alimony.

Through her attorney, L. E. Myers, Mrs. Barrett asks for divorce, alimony and restoration of her maiden name, Donna Marie DeBolt.

Locked Out, Claim

Lloyd Robinson alleges that his wife, Edith locked him out of their home on different occasions and that finally on April 20, 1927, she ordered gas and electricity turned off, packed up her belongings and went to Cleveland, where she filed suit for divorce 16 days later.

Mrs. Robinson has indicated that she has no affection for him and has neglected her duties as wife and mother, the petition alleges.

He asks for a divorce and custody of their two minor children, Robert E., aged 6 and Ruth Ellen 5. His attorney is J. H. Lemon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were married Dec. 1, 1919.

Grace Ames is plaintiff in a suit brought against Fred Ames, in which a divorce is sought on grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty. Because of the plaintiff being a minor 19 years of age her petition is filed by her next friend, Lulu Smith.

Mrs. Ames says that her husband attacked her frequently and that one of these assaults resulted in his arrest and plea of guilty to the charge of assault and battery in local justice of peace court in January, 1925. Ames finally drove her away from home, the plaintiff alleges.

They were married March 31, 1923. Through her attorney, Homer F. Johnson, Mrs. Ames asks for a divorce and restoration of her maiden name, Grace A. Hoke.

Suits Settled

Two damage suits brought against the Erie Railroad Co., one by Frank M. Shoemaker and the other by W. E. Nye, have been settled at costs of the defendant company.

A foreclosure suit brought by Carl R. Haas against John H. Clark administrator was dismissed today at costs of the plaintiff.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses were issued in probate court today to Samuel K. Rader, 21, Marion Steam Shovel Co. employe, and Stella May Coye, 19, Marion; Charles A. McGuire, 24, moulder's helper, and Elsie McClain, 18, Marion; F. Godfrey Leffler, 40, life insurance salesman, and Catheryn E. Abel, 27, Marion.

Award Custody

In granting a divorce to James T. Detrow in his suit against Della Detrow, several days ago, Judge Seofield also awarded custody of the three minor children to the husband. In the published report it was erroneously stated that the children were placed in the custody of Mrs. Detrow.

Cool Reason Rides in Cockpit With Gentle Commander Byrd

ROOSEVELT FIELD, LONG ISLAND, N. Y., June 29 — Where emotion swayed the other flights, cool reason rides in the cockpit with Commander Richard E. Byrd.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, with a youth's daring, flew to fame and career.

Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine ventured for personal vindication.

Commander Byrd flies for neither. His career is already established. His flight over the North Pole settled his prestige as dean of air explorers. And of capitalization of personal glory he knows nothing.

He is a sportsman of the first water. At the same time he is not foolhardy but of sound scientific mind, which combination makes for a mental slant that rises high above any personal exaltation.

• • •

THAT is why Byrd could not understand the mumbled queries of some of the visitors at the field before the hop-off.

To them, emotionally, the flight seemed anti-climatic. "Why jeopardize prestige when the glory of the first crossing is gone?" they asked.

The Byrd mind was unable to grasp such a question. The reason for the flight—to him—is as simple as it was when the trip was first planned many months ago.

"My main purpose," he said, "is to learn to some extent the quickest and safest air course to Europe." That's all. And in the next moment a word about the South Pole explorations which he will attempt when he gets back. In adventures aeronautical, Byrd's mind moves as fast as his plane. He has been a reasoning adventurer since childhood.

As he had been around the world. And his career was settled as were the careers of his brothers. They were three, Tom, Dick and Harry. One went in for politics and now is Governor of Virginia, another went into business and is a leader in his calling, and the third turned explorer.

The family is of the highest caste. Its personal views never enter into the work of another. The Commander's wife and children keep themselves in the background. They will not be sailing over to share in the glories of their hero. Come what may, there never is a grumble. During the long tedious weeks of preparation, and the sudden hop-off of Lindbergh, there was nothing but cheer. Then came the wait for Lindy's return. A flight during that time might have robbed the boy of some of his glory.

All this was the thoughtfulness of the pure-bred gentleman.

Finally, the flight. Pour le sport? (For the sport of it?) To a degree. But mainly for the future safety of humanity, without thought of personal glory, aggrandizement or danger.

Private Sunday Dances At Crystal Lake Assured When New Club Takes Over Hall

Management of Dance Pavilion at Park Passes into Hands of Organization; Arrangement Effective Daily for Remainder of Season

Management of the dance pavilion at Crystal Lake Park passed into the hands of the newly organized Crystal Dancing Club under provisions of a lease negotiated today and the club is now arranging to conduct private dances at the park during the remainder of the season, Sundays as well as week-days.

Terms of the lease were tentatively agreed upon at a meeting of directors of the Crystal Pavilion & Amusement Co., yesterday afternoon and the deal was to be definitely closed some time today. The first dance under the club plan is scheduled for tonight.

Not Prohibited

According to interpretation of the law by officers of the new dance club, authority granted probate judges to prohibit Sunday dances does not apply to the club plan. The law under which Sunday dances at Crystal Lake Park were recently suspended when Probate Judge Mc Neal refused to grant a permit for Sunday programs applies only to public dances, it is said. As the new management at Crystal Lake Park provides that only club members may attend, it is held that it can not be halted by any action of the judge.

It is claimed by promoters of the club that the old "blue laws" which have been on the Ohio statute books many years, are the only legal regulations which could prevent Sunday dances under the club arrangement. The same laws, if enforced rigidly, would prevent not only all commercial activities on Sunday but amusements of practically every type, it is asserted.

Judge Absent

J. Malcolm Strentz, attorney for the Crystal Pavilion & Amusement Co., is handling the legal phases of the lease transaction.

Probate Judge L. B. McNeal is out of the city and his views on the new dance plan could not be ascertained today. He will return Friday night from Cleveland, where he is attending the annual national convention of the Mystic Order, Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, a Masonic organization.

Decision to lease the pavilion was reached by the park company directors after they discussed the situation thoroughly at yesterday's meeting and agreed that unless a plan of this sort could be worked out successfully it will be necessary to close the park and cease all operations.

This is absolutely certain to be the outcome in case the club dance plan fails to function either through lack of support or legal interference, Fred B. Scheff, manager of Crystal Lake Park stated today.

While the dance pavilion has never yielded a great profit, Scheff says, it is absolutely essential for successful operation of the entire park. Without the dances to attract patrons, who invariably patronize other enterprises at the park, attendance can not be maintained on an adequate scale, he says.

He points out as an example that persons who go in bathing are almost invariably at the park for that purpose only and do not help support other entertainment features. Those attending the dance, on the contrary, can usually be counted upon as patrons of the park as a whole.

The park company, made up of a number of prominent local business men, has an investment of approximately $200,000, Scheff says, and an adequate return on this amount is not possible unless all entertainment features, especially dancing, are permitted to operate.

The pavilion has been leased to the new dancing club on a strictly rental basis and the park company will have absolutely no connection with its management, Scheff says.

Under provisions of the clubs constitution and by-laws, membership will be restricted to persons whose applications have been acted upon by an executive committee and admittance to dances will be only on presentation of membership cards.

Minors 18 years of age or less will be admitted as members only when their applications are accompanied by written consents signed by their parents or guardians.

Temporary Head

Earl Andrews is temporary president of the club and Harold J. Brennon is secretary. It is planned to call a meeting of members within the next week to elect permanent officers.

The lease is for the remainder of the present dance season and it is expected that before the close of the first month it will be ascertained whether the plan will work out successfully.

The aim is to establish a membership of 1,000. Dues for one season are to be $1 for men and 50 cents for women.

Operation of the club is not to be for profit, the aim being to collect only enough revenue to pay actual expenses, officials of the club's state. This revenue will be obtained by assessing a pro rata charge at the dances.

A sunday club dance plan is now operating in Crawford County, where the probate judge recently prohibited public dances on Sunday.

The club plan in Marion County will be much more definite and restrictive than that in Crawford County, its promoters state.

EATS, RESTS AND FEELS BETTER THAN IN YEARS

Neuritis, Rheumatic Pains All Disappear; General Health Fine; Credits Konjola

"For a year I couldn't do my work, because neuritis and rheumatism got the best of me, and I was never able to get relief until I found Konjola, but now my general health is fine, and I feel better than I have in years."

MRS. IDA C. WHITE

This remarkable statement about the celebrated new Konjola compound was made just a few days ago by Mrs. Ida C. White, well known Marion lady, living at 220 East George St., this city, while talking with The Konjola Man at the Stump Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., where he is personally introducing and explaining Konjola to the people of this section throughout each day.

"My stomach is improved wonderfully," said Mrs. White, "so that I eat whatever I want and have no after-effects. My nerves are strengthened so I rest better, and no one knows how much happier I am since Konjola has made such a great change in my general health.

"This rheumatism and neuritis was causing me one misery after another. For over a year I didn't know what it felt like to be out of misery. Losing so much sleep at nights I was only a weak, nervous wreck. It seemed like nothing could be done for me, and I was putting out all kinds of money in vain. Finally I found this new Konjola and the blessed relief it has given me makes me feel like I am the happiest person in the whole state. I haven't one single pain of any kind. It is worth a great deal to know about a medicine like Konjola, and I recommend it every chance I get."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy (Stump & Sams), 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given. Adv.

HONOR DECEASED MEMBER AT PYTHIAN SISTER MEET

Caledonia, June 29. In memory of Mrs. Sadie Blair a member of Lenore Temple No. 90 Pythian Sisters whose death occurred last Friday, the charter was draped and a committee appointed to write resolutions at a meeting held in K. of P. Hall last night.

Initiation was held and one new name, Mrs. Martha Sickel was added to the roster. District Deputy Mrs. Jessie Lease Keen, was presented and inspected the work. Six members from Marion Temple No. 281 and nine members of Castle Temple No. 152 Marion were present and interesting talks were given by members of each temple.

At the close of the work ice cream, cake and coffee were served and a social hour followed.

WILL HONOR NEW AND RETIRING INSTRUCTORS

Farewell and Reception at Green Camp High School Friday

Green Camp, June 29.—J. Franklin Johnson retiring Smith Hughes instructor at the local high school and his successor Julius Kreglow, Columbus, will be honored at a smalltaneous farewell and reception at the high school here Friday night.

Plans for the affair were completed at a committee meeting held last night.

Rev. S. C. Cunningham and Carl Hoberman, both of Green Camp are scheduled to deliver the principal addresses on the program. The committee announced that special efforts will be made to have a large representation of the community attend the affair.

Mr. Johnson has directed vocational agricultural work here successfully for the past four years. His leaving is regarded as a distinct loss to both school and community. He is to be located at Greenfield, O., for the next school term.

FORMER MARION MAN IS HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE

On a charge of defrauding Mabel Caldwell of this city out of $120 on the sale of a hair bobbing chair, Alex A. Emery, who conducted a barber supply house in this city for several years was arrested in Ft. Wayne, Ind., yesterday and brought back to this city today.

According to the affidavit filed by Miss Caldwell, who lives at 514 N. Greenwood st., she had purchased a new hair bobbing chair from Emery on April 19, of this year paying him $120, but that when the chair was delivered several weeks later it proved to be an old one and useless. The affidavit for the arrest of Emery was filed by Miss Caldwell on June 20.

ACQUITTED OF CHARGE, ARRESTED ON ANOTHER

William Staley Pleads Guilty to Selling Liquor; Fined $150 and Costs

Acquitted on a charge of disorderly conduct William Staley stepped from the municipal court room yesterday afternoon only to be rearrested on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor. He entered guilty to the charge when arraigned before Judge Martin in municipal court this morning and was fined $150 and costs. He is being held at police headquarters pending payment of the fine.

Staley, with Mrs. Lawrence Dominy and Mr. Dominy's brother, W. O. Wren, was arrested in a raid on the Dominy home at 1402 S. Main st. late Sunday night. Charges of disorderly conduct were placed against Staley and Wren, while the Dominy woman was charged with illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, several pint bottles, partly filled, having been found by the police.

The three pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Martin on Monday and their hearings were set for yesterday afternoon. The charges against the two men were dismissed by Judge Martin following their hearing, on the grounds that the testimony did not justify the charge. The hearing of Mrs. Dominy has been continued.
